POUND FLEEING DESERT ARMY

GOP Victory Shakes FDR Congress Grip

PARTY HOLDS AT LEAST 206 HOUSE SEATS

Dems Keep Slight Edge With 218 Representatives, 56 Senators.

ALL BACK WAR EFFORT

President's Control Over Labor, Domestic Issues In Jeopardy.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — President Roosevelt's control of congress on labor and other domestic issues was jeopardized today though nearly complete general election returns showed that the Democrats won a bare majority of the house of representatives.

The Republicans gained 41 house seats and will have at least 206 seats in the new house convening the first week of January. The Democrats have won 218 seats, a majority. The Progressives have two seats and the Farmer-Labor and American-Labor parties have one each. Seven seats were still undecided early today.

With one contest in Montana still in doubt, the Republicans gained nine seats in the upper house for a total of 38. The Democrats will have 56 seats in the new senate and the Progressives will have one. The new 78th congress meets the first week of January. Control of the senate was not at stake in this election.

Democratic majorities have been unexpectedly reduced. Democrats in the house will be painfully short of the comfortable working majorities they have enjoyed since the first New Deal landslide in 1932.

Republicans on Tuesday elected more senators and representatives than in any election since 1928. And the G. O. P. made important gubernatorial gains in New York, California, Michigan and Connecticut, although they lost a governor to the Progressive party in Wisconsin.

It is fair to say that the Republicans carried 20 states which represents 287 electoral votes—more than a majority of the electoral college which determines

Ohioans Put Control In GOP Hands

Give Republicans Clear Majority In State's General Assembly.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Complete unofficial returns in the secretary of state's office today disclosed that John A. Corlett, Cuyahoga county Republican, defeated Clarence Young, Democrat, to give the Republicans 28 seats and the Democrats five in the Ohio senate.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A short session of the state legislature starting next January devoted chiefly to matters pertaining to the war effort was promised today by Gov. John W. Bricker.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio voters, besides selecting Republicans to run the state government during the next two years, entrusted them with almost sole responsibility for the enactment of state legislation.

When the 95th general assembly convenes in January, third-term Gov. John W. Bricker will find members of his party in absolute control and thus empowered to enact laws which they consider most beneficial.

In the house of representatives will be 111 Republicans and 25 Democrats; in the senate, 28 Republicans and five Democrats.

The Republicans will not have to spend time wooing Democratic cooperation as they did in the 1941-42 legislature, in which the lineup was: house, 78 Republicans, 60 Democrats; senate, 19 Republicans, 17 Democrats.

Having better than a two-thirds majority, they can enact emergency legislation which will not be subject to a referendum of the voters.

To set up this situation, the voters unseated 28 Democratic representatives and seven Democratic senators in Tuesday's election. Among them was Rep. H. L. Mason, the house Democratic leader. The seifate Democratic leader, William M. Boyd of Cleveland, was re-elected.

The electorate returned to the house — its membership reduced

FDR RETURNS

Back at White House After Election Visit at Home.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt returned to his desk at the White House today after spending several days at his home in Hyde Park, N. Y., where he went to cast his ballot in the off-year elections.

Mr. Roosevelt's return to Washington was announced by his secretary, Stephen T. Early. Asked for presidential comment on the outcome of Tuesday's voting, Early told reporters that he had not discussed the matter with the chief executive.

Returning to his desk, the president found waiting for his determination a comprehensive report on the war manpower problem drawn up by the war manpower advisory committee and submitted to the president by Paul V. McNutt.

STOPS PRACTICE

Judge Bans Future Chance For "Enlist Or Be Sentenced."

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Robbery offenders facing Judges Frank S. Day and Charles J. McNamee no longer will be given an opportunity to escape sentence by joining the army.

Reason for ending the practice, the common pleas judges said today, was that word had spread among young criminals that they could commit robberies without fear of imprisonment.

MAKE CLAIMS

Nazis Say They Bag 26 Freighters In Sub War.

BERLIN — (From German Broadcasts) — A special communique from the Fuehrer's headquarters declared today that "in far-flung operations extending from the Arctic to waters south of Madagascar German submarines have inflicted fresh heavy losses upon the enemy transport fleets," claiming the sinking of 26 freighters totaling 168,000 tons.

(These claims lacked confirmation from any other quarters.)

George M. Cohan, Leading Figure In American Theater, Dies at 64

Wrote 'Over There,' Was On the Stage For 54 Years.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—George M. Cohan, the Yankee Doodle Dandy who wrote the best war song since "Dixie," died today in the midst of a new world war for which "Over There" might mean any part of the globe.

He died at 5 a. m., in his Fifth avenue apartment, surrounded by his wife, his son, George jr., and his daughters, Mary and Helen. Cohan, 64, succumbed to an intestinal ailment which forced him to undergo an operation a year ago (Oct. 19, 1941) and from which he never fully recovered.

The song and dance man—his own choice as the most fitting summation of his 54 years in the theater—still was enfeebled from the long, eventually fatal illness when Japan struck at Pearl Harbor. He wrote another war song. The tune was sprightly, with the old Cohan lilt, and the words rang true, but it was not the perfect wedding of lyrics and music which made "Over There" the marching song of a million Yanks.

On the eve of publication it was decided to let the song rest on the shelf. That decision fulfilled his own intuition, expressed two years ago, when he said:

"I hope America will never need another war song. But if we do need one, it will have to be written by some young fellow."

Cohan lived through the heyday of the American theater and was a star in every phase of popular entertainment. He saw vaudeville reach its zenith and perish, and was one of its

Death today had silenced the voice which brought laughter from thousands in "It Pays to Advertise"; it had stilled the feet which danced through "Yankee Doodle Dandy," and it had blunted the pen which composed "Over There." For George M. Cohan, shown above getting ready for one of his thousands of stage appearances, died last night at the age of 64. He had been connected with the American theater for 54 years.

INDUSTRY TO LOCATE HERE

Plant Making Jewelry, Leather Goods to Employ 75; Moves From Detroit.

A new industry which is expected to employ at least 75 persons within two or three months will be established immediately in the Perry Vegetable Compound building, 30 North Foster street, the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce announced today.

Negotiations were completed yesterday for moving the offices and plant of the National Ring corporation here from Detroit, Mich., and transfer of the equipment was started today.

The firm has been manufacturing novelty jewelry, including Indian bracelets, rings, and pins, but because of the scarcity of metal, it will convert a part of its facilities to the making of leather novelties. A part of the output is expected to go into the war program, the Chamber of Commerce announcement said.

In Mansfield, the company will operate under the title of the National Ring and Leather corporation. G. F. Wadsworth is president of the company and Ralph H. Ide is secretary-treasurer. Both will make their headquarters in Mansfield.

The company will begin operations here in about two weeks, starting with approximately 25 employes, the Chamber of Commerce said. The number of employes will be increased later.

Negotiations for leasing the Parry building were completed through George C. Kyle, realtor.

SILENT ON VOTE

White House Has No Comment On Republican Triumph.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House was silent today on the Republican gains in Tuesday's elections.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early was asked about the results and replied:

"I have not talked to the president about the election, and I'm sure you would not be interested in my own views."

GIVEN LIFE

Irwin Kadens Sentenced To Asylum For Criminals.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Irwin Kadens, Chicago army deserter who turned desperado in a career of crime extending over four states, today was under sentence to spend the rest of his days in the asylum for the criminal insane at Menard, Ill.

Within a span of two hours Kadens was found insane yesterday in criminal court and was sentenced to the institution for criminal insane by Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro. The testimony, in which the bandit was held to be a schizophreniac, was supplied by five psychiatrists.

As the verdict of insanity was pronounced Kadens jumped up and shouted: "I protest. I want to be tried on a death penalty offense."

SALES ZOOM

Ohioans Spend $5,000,000 For Liquor In Week.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Liquor sales of Ohio's monopoly stores skyrocketed to a record at approximately $5,049,000 last week as tax-conscious consumers dodged new federal liquor taxes.

This represents an increase of $1,906,541, or nearly 38 per cent over the previous seven-day peak.

NEW JUDGE UP TO GOVERNOR

Bricker To Name Successor To Kalbfleisch Under New State Amendment.

When Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, elected Tuesday to the Richland county common pleas bench, assumes his new office, Feb. 9, his successor in municipal court will be named by Gov. John W. Bricker.

Judge Kalbfleisch is now serving his second term as municipal judge, a term that does not expire until Dec. 31, 1943. The Ohio constitutional amendment approved by voters Tuesday brings an end to election of short-term judges by giving the governor the appointive power.

There was speculation in some quarters in the city today that Atty. Herbert H. Schettler who serves as acting municipal judge during Judge Kalbfleisch's absences may be a candidate for appointment. Atty. Lydon H. Beam was mentioned as another possibility.

The judge, who has been coordinator of Mansfield civilian defense since the latter was organized, said that he expects to continue his duties as co-ordinator

Battery D on Job In Pacific, Wins Beightler Praise

Mansfield's Battery D is a part of the U. S. Army's 37th division which today received praise from its commander, Major General Robert S. Beightler, former Ohio highway director, for its activities in the Pacific.

"The division has been holding certain islands in the Pacific that are considered the most important of all 'stepping stones' with the exception of Hawaii and Australia," Beightler informed his friend, Major Harry H. Kerr, Camp Perry executive officer.

This information was approved for general newspaper use by the office of censorship after it appeared in army publications.

As shown on standard maps, major allied-held islands which might be considered "stepping stones" include New Zealand, the New Hebrides, the Fijis, New Caledonia, part of New Guinea and the Samoas.

Many Mansfield men are known to be on these islands while others, with New York postoffice addresses, have been unable to tell their relatives on which of them they are located.

Launch Drive to Buy Bomber With Bonds During November

Mansfield women's clubs are going to literally "Keep 'em Flying."

They will do it by selling war bonds during the month of November—Women's War Bond month—in an effort to raise $175,000 for the purchase of a medium-sized bomber to help beat the Axis.

Sales will be conducted on a competitive basis and the contest is open to all women's organizations having eight or more members and which holds regular meetings with elected or appointed officers.

Plans for the campaign were launched last night at a meeting of defense chairmen from all women's organizations in the city called by Mrs. Louis J. Ott, head of the women's division for war bond sales in Richland county.

Approximately 150 attended the session in the Chamber of Commerce rooms where the plan was explained by Paul Endriss, publicity director for the campaign. Thirty-eight clubs representing 3,400 members signified their intention of participating in the campaign last night and many others will be added to the competition before the deadline for registration, Nov. 10.

Permission to purchase the bomber was obtained by the Rich-

FDR War Aid Re-elected By Slim Margin in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— Rep. A. J. (Jack) May, one of President Roosevelt's chief war aids, won re-election by the narrowest of margins in the Seventh district, and Sen. A. B. (Happy) Chandler was returned to office for a full six-year term, virtually complete unofficial returns from Kentucky precincts showed today.

May's return to congress as chairman of the important military affairs committee was fought by United Mine Workers and their president, John L. Lewis, but tabulations from 362 of the Seventh's 363 precincts gave the representative a margin of 22,138 votes to 21,627 for Dr. Elmer E. Gabbard, Republican.

No votes were cast in one precinct.

HIT FROM REAR

Fighting French Paratroopers Land Behind Axis Lines.

LONDON —(INS)— Paratroopers of the fighting French forces operating behind Axis lines in Egypt are dealing heavy blows to the enemy, a Reuter dispatch from Beirut said today.

The parachutists are destroying isolated tanks and aircraft in daring raids on Axis strong points such as Barka and Martouba. It was estimated that at least 100 enemy aircraft already have been destroyed.

Allied Troops, Planes Pursue Rommel Force

9,000 Axis Prisoners Stream to Rear From Graveyard of Twisted Tanks And Equipment; Foe's Supply Lines Under Air Attack.

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO—Weakened by the loss of thousands of men captured, killed, wounded or isolated in their desert strongpoints, a once-proud Axis army was in full flight today across western Egypt in a frantic hunt for position to avert destruction.

Only a rearward moving screen of anti-tank guns and tanks shielded the bulk of Marshal Rommel's African corps from the pressing advance of a United Nations army—the Eighth British—while a comparatively impotent air force sought to parry the combined blows of American and British imperial airmen.

While 9,000 prisoners (by a count already 24 hours old) streamed dejectedly to the British rear, the Allied air forces kept hitting at the foe, and the main coastal line of retreat was described as a veritable graveyard of smoking, twisted tanks, armored cars and trucks.

(The Axis, with Rome acknowledging severe losses, said that Italian and German armies had withdrawn to new lines in the west. The Germans denied that their front had been breached.

(The Italian communique, however, indicated the depth of the Eighth army's drive—at least its tank spearheads—when it told of "fierce and bloody fighting" by tank and infantry forces of both sides between El Alamein and Fuka.

(Fuka is about 70 miles to the west of El Alamein. The British have not announced their present positions.)

It was believed that Rommel has no large reserves behind him, either in western Egypt or Libya.

The sudden collapse of the Axis defenses was announced last night in a British communique after 12 days of furious fighting in which the Allies were said to have taken a tremendous toll of Rommel's men and equipment.

Today's communique told of a continuing British advance on all sectors of the front, with enemy tanks and anti-tank guns attempting to fight a rearguard action along the coastal road in the north—the main avenue of retreat.

At the southern end of the narrow front, Axis forces were reported still holding out in a few isolated positions, but it appeared that the British were by-passing these in their general advance.

Allied planes kept the retreating Axis forces under heavy attack and the dwindling air force at Rommel's command was kept strictly on the defensive. Except for one divebombing attack, which was quickly broken up by Allied fighters, the British ground forces were unmolested from the air.

Intent on keeping reinforcements from reaching Rommel, Allied bombers and torpedo carrying planes also blasted at his overseas supply lines, damaging a tanker and a heavily laden merchant vessel and scoring three hits on escorting destroyers, the communique said.

The British reported destruction of 13 Axis aircraft yesterday

'BRILLIANT VICTORY': King Describes Rout of Axis Army

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—King George VI described the rout of Marshal Erwin Rommel's African forces as a brilliant victory and his phrases set the pace for elated comment by normally restrained British military observers today.

The London Daily Express said Axis losses probably already totaled not less than 40,000 men killed, wounded or captured, along with 80 per cent of the available air strength and at least half the gun power.

It was estimated that more than 50 per cent of the German and Italian armored forces were represented by 260 tanks sacrificed in a vain attempt to halt the westward push.

Well-informed observers who cannot be named said Rommel controlled about 300 Nazi tanks and possibly 200 of Italian manufacture when the Allied offensive opened the night of Oct. 23.

The British radio hammered the story home to the peoples of Germany, Italy and the Nazi-occupied and neutral nations of Europe with broadcast after broadcast in many tongues.

King George congratulated Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, British Middle East commander, field officers and men for the cooperative blow by Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's Eighth army, the RAF and the royal navy. He said its importance "cannot be exaggerated."

"I can assure all three services, embracing as they do many representatives of the British commonwealth and our Allies, of the admiration and pride of the whole empire in their brilliant victory . . . ," he said.

While caution was combined with optimism, the Daily Sketch said "We shall probably find that the Eighth army performed as great a feat as any of the war."

"Here is a second front Hitler dares no longer ignore," the London Daily Mail declared.

BATTERING: U. S. Troops Push Foe Backward on Guadacanal

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Persistent battering of the Japanese by land and air gave American and Allied fighters fresh ground gains today in besieged Guadalcanal and New Guinea.

Further widening an attempted Japanese vise that threatened to close on the American-held airfield in Guadalcanal, United States Marines and soldiers forced back the enemy's western flank, capturing about 20 machine guns and two small field artillery pieces in the process.

In New Guinea, westward of the Solomon islands, Allied troops under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian command overcame "strong enemy resistance" and plunged on through the jungles toward the Japanese coastal base at Buna.

Supported by army and navy planes that strafed and bombed the Nipponese troops and positions, the United States forces inched forward along beaches and through dense underbrush Monday (south Pacific time) to relieve the pressure on the important Guadalcanal airbase.

At the other end of the newly installed enemy vise, east of Henderson airport, recently landed Japanese troops presumably were manipulating for a thrust at the springboard of the American aerial assault on the foe's ships, troops and installations.

For obvious reasons, the navy gave no hint of what reception the American forces were preparing for the Nipponese fleet in

New Evening Hats Are Flattering

Left, pearl and coral embroidered pillbox, powder blue crepe over black; top right, sequin trimmed felt beret; below, black velveteen fez with veil and tear-drops.

By SUSAN BARDEN
(International Illustrated News Writer)

Smart-minded women or 'teenagers may achieve a style spotlight by wearing the new holiday version evening hats. They can be worn with short dinner dresses or, if you have the feeling that you have no time from war activities or business to go home and attire yourself in party clothes, you may still meet your best beau after five and be dressed for the evening by donning a scintillating hat.

These headlighting models focus special and flattering attention on both face and coiffure. They lend an added radiance to complexion and eyes, so that even if you haven't time for formal clothes, you'll feel your most glamorous when you wear them.

Everything Sparkles.

This type of hat sports everything that sparkles, from glass bangles to blazing sequins. To suit any face there are pompadour hats, some trimmed with a dusting of sequins sprinkled feathers, others adorned with butterflies of gold leather, some made entirely of paillette covered net with black drapes of net to flatter a lovely neckline. For height, if you are a short girl, choose dramatic Russian paphakas frosted with peasant beading or, in some cases, with shimmering pendants made of mirrors.

Among colors, there are vivid shades like peacock blue and pink, but many women still hold to black as the perfect backdrop for a dramatic evening.

The small pillbox shown in one of the above pictures has a black suede foundation covered with powder blue crepe and faced with pearls and coral embroidery. It has two hat pins covered with the same material which adds decoration on either side.

Suitable to Day or Night.

The wide Spanish looking hat is delightful for both daytime and evening. It is a felt beret with the top sparkling with brilliant sequins. The scalloped thick edges add a becoming softness.

Another hat that has a distinctly evening air is the black velveteen fez, created to take you from afternoon to dawn. The figured veil which falls luxuriously to the shoulders adds extra special sophistication and flattery.

It's especially important this festive season to sparkle on dimmed-out streets and under the subdued lights of theaters, so these hats are a great help toward brightening our important evenings.

Janet Barry, Sweetheart Of AEF, True to One Love

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Wide World Features Writer)

Janet Barry's horizon has widened since she was chosen Sweetheart of the AEF in Ireland and England.

All she dreamed of before was a vine-covered bungalow in New Jersey.

What she yearns for now is a personal appearance tour in Ireland.

But both dreams are linked to one man—Corporal Albert Wexler, whose ruby ring she wears, and who is now stationed with the AEF in the Emerald Isle.

"If only I could go there," says Janet - with - the - light - brown - hair - the - cream - and - peaches - epidermis - and - the - Hollywood - silhouttee - below - the - knees. "I haven't seen him since he left this year. And if you knew how I want to go! I'd love to go with a theatrical group to make personal appearances and keep up the morale of the boys for a certain number of days. After all they chose me as their sweetheart."

Corporal Wexler has been leading man in the Barry drama since the day about two years ago when he walked into a Jersey store to call on a friend, and met Janet, playing hooky from school to visit the same friend.

After that it was a date nearly every night at the Belmar, N. J., apartment where 18-year-old Janet lives with her father (an auxiliary military policeman at Fort Monmouth), her mother (a telephone operator) and her 16-year-old brother (who works in a food market).

Albert, who formerly conducted an Asbury Park photograph studio with his brother, and who is now in the 56th signal battalion, had a hand in Janet's choice as Sweetheart of the AEF. From his stock of photographs he selected his favorite and entered it in the sweetheart contest.

The Sweetheart of the AEF in Ireland is slim and tall—five feet nine inches. She gives her measurements as follows: bust 35 inches, waist 22½ and hips 35. She weighs 140 pounds, wears a size 16 or 18 dress, a 7½ A shoe and size 7 gloves.

School bored her, so she quit in her junior year at high school, held a succession of jobs and is now a stenographer at Camp Evans, N. J.

Her choice as Sweetheart of the AEF started the biggest week she has ever known. Trips to New York, where she does not know her way around, pictures in the papers, interviews and a broadcast in which she talked to Albert in Ireland.

JANET BARRY

"I asked if I could just say at the end, 'I love you,'" Janet said. "Everything had to be just so, you know. There was a censor in London and one in New York and the minute I'd say a word out of the way they would have cut it out. But they did add 'I love you' to the script and the censors passed it."

Janet has definite ideas about the way a soldier's sweetheart should behave:

"She should write him at least five letters a week. And they should be cheerful, newsy letters, too—not bad news. She should be true to him in every respect. And she should trust him—no matter where he is."

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Big Dollars, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

AT THE NOVEMBER MEETING of Western P. T. A., which was held at the school last evening, W. S. Boniece gave a forceful and timely talk on "Our Alien Problem and What We Are Doing About It." He explained difficulties which must be surmounted by aliens training for citizenship and urged citizens to have tolerance and be understanding of these people and their children.

The speaker was introduced by Russell McGinty, program chairman.

Mrs. Frank Daniels, music chairman, conducted group singing which was accompanied by Miss Florence Conn, and presented Charlotte and Margaret Lemley, who sang "There's a Little Bit of Ireland Over Here, and "John Doe" songs composed by Mrs. J. D. Strickler. Their accompaniment was furnished by Mrs. Floyd Smith. Mr. Smith, president of the P. T. A. had charge of the business session during which the members voted to give $15 to the Community War Chest. Serving of refreshments by the hospitality commitee with Miss Conn as chairman, brought the evening to a close. Attendance awards for both October and November meetings were won by Miss Leona Miles' fifth grade class.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

If the front office will stand for it, I think maybe I will put my friend Elwood Kammer, coach of Massillon's Mighty Men, on the payroll.

Last week Kam supplied me with some fine column material on sportsmanship of fans under adverse conditions, and this week he comes up with another thought which I have long considered most indubitably true:

"Massillon has the best football show in the country."

Kam was telling the Massillon Boosters club: "After seeing the Notre Dame-Navy game at Cleveland, and the bands, the lack of enthusiasm, the terrible playing field, I am convinced we have the best football show in the country.

"I hope we can keep what we have, and can give the kids the education that is coming to them. As to football," continued the Tiger tutor, "I want to go on record here as saying that we do not devote any more time to football than we did 20 years ago when I was in high school. Do not allow anyone to tell you anything different."

Kammer is probably right on that last statement. No one ever accused Massillon high school of spending more time on football than was necessary. The Massillon system is built on football development in the grade and junior high schools. It's more years, not more time, that develops Massillon teams.

Sandusky sport scribes appear to be having a hard time selling this week's Sandusky-Akron West game to the fans.

The fans recall that Mansfield beat Akron West 14-6, and that Sandusky beat Mansfield 28-6, and they can't be blamed too much if they fail to see anything inviting about a Sandusky-Akron West encounter.

But don't be surprised if the Akron Cowboys give the Blue Streaks a battle.

Mansfield fans need not be reminded that West led the Tigers until the last three minutes of play, when Coach Paul Snyder took Roland Schmidt off the bench and turned him loose for a pair of lightning touchdowns.

Those same Mansfield fans may wonder why Schmidt hasn't run wild in other games as he did against Akron West, but they should realize that other Mansfield opponents have been able to scout the former Simpson sensation, while West was getting its first glimpse of an unknown bench warmer in the closing minutes of that opening game.

And it is still a fact that fumbles and intercepted passes led to most of Sandusky's points against Mansfield. The score didn't represent the actual difference between the two teams.

After losing to Mansfield, West dropped an 18-3 decision to East Liverpool. Then the Cowboys were edged by Akron North 7-6, tied Akron Central 0-0, beat Akron East 18-8, and won from Akron South 13-12. That wasn't such a poor team Mansfield beat in the opener.

6 Teams Enter Church League

Meeting Set Tonight For City Cage Loop.

The senior Church basketball league was organized at a meeting last night at the Y. M. C. A. building and is set to open its season the second week of December with six teams.

Deadline for filing entry fees was set for Dec. 1. Another meeting will be held next Wednesday night at the "Y" at which time other teams will be given an opportunity to join the league.

Represented at last night's meeting were St. Luke's, St. John's, St. Matthew's, Grace Gospel, Congregational and Baptist churches.

Tonight at 7:30 the city Industrial basketball league, or as it is better known, the City "A" league, will hold a meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

A number of teams have been contacted for the "A" league by John Fike, physical director at the "Y" and have indicated they are ready for another season's play on the hardwood.

ROBINSON FAVORED

NEW YORK (AP)—Although he will be giving away a ten-pound weight edge, Ray Robinson is a 5 to 12 favorite to hang up his 38th consecutive professional victory when he tights Vic Delbianchi at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Frisch Favored For Job

Fordham Frankie Liked as Brooklyn Manager.

By JACK MAHON

NEW YORK—(INS)—Though we are not being exactly original—since everyone from Broadway Rose to Jim Farley has been mentioned for the job—we'd like to inform you today that the next manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers may be none other than good old Fordham Frankie Frisch!

That's not a guess. It's the report of one of our most highly paid personal Gestapo agents, who does not shoot off his mouth just to show off his pearly white molars. Frisch is highly regarded by Branch Rickey, new president and general manager of the Dodgers, and as we get it, may come to Brooklyn, if he can secure a release from his current employers, the Pittsburgh Pirates.

No offer has yet been made, as far as we can learn, but Rickey undoubtedly will take up the matter in the near future. He is scheduled to report to his downtown Brooklyn office this afternoon to begin his long-awaited job of reconstruction on the Gowanus Darlings.

While Frisch is the No. 1 man in the Brain's plans at the moment, he may not be released by President Bill Benswanger of the Pirates.

Each club has to file a reserve list each winter and no man on it, including the manager, can negotiate for a new job without a written release.

Frisch, who once worked for Rickey and Sam Breadon as manager of the Cardinals from 1933 through 1938, finished fifth, first, second, second, fourth and sixth with them before shifting over to the Pirates.

He succeeded Harold (Pie) Traynor at the helm of the Pittsburgh club at the end of the '39 season and, with rather flimsy material, hasn't had much success with that club. The Pirates finished in the second division this season and Frankie undoubtedly would jump at an offer from Rickey—if Owner Benswanger unlocked his chains.

While Rickey respects Frisch's baseball ability we understand he also wants to have some of the fire and aggressiveness the Gowanus faithful love, remain at Ebbets field.

With Larry MacPhail in the army and Leo the Lip wearing out his living room rug in St. Louis practicing "squads right," the home of the famed "Bums" would be too much like a morgue under a pilot who believes in discussing balls and strikes in ten-time tones.

For this reason, we're told, Burt Shotton, while highly respected by Rickey, does not figure as prominently in the Brain's plans as Frisch. Shotton, a quiet-speaking gentleman, has been coaching at Cleveland, and has had his name mentioned, along with 5,698 others, as the successor to the Lip.

If Benswanger should refuse to release Frisch or if Frank can't come to terms with Rickey (both remote possibilities) we understand the Brain will probably go along with the organization as it was this year and pick his manager from the dugout crew of 1942.

Should that be the case the new manager will be Charlie (Chuck) Dressen. Wanna bet?

Brown Gets Fan Backing

Columbus Kibitzers Vote Confidence.

COLUMBUS - (AP) The downtown quarterbacks, those gridiron kibitzers who made life happy or miserable for Ohio State football mentors—are still for Coach Paul Brown despite that stinging Wisconsin defeat.

They demonstrated that last night as Brown appeared before their club's weekly meeting to discuss the 7-7 walloping his Bucks took at Madison last Saturday.

Despite the defeat, which rumbled Ohio State from its No. 1 national gridiron rating and dropped it from the Western conference leadership, the downtowners tendered Brown a rousing ovation—an ovation which the Buck coach himself described as "a vote of confidence."

Reviewing the game, Brown said it was just one of those days when Wisconsin was "on" and Ohio was "off." But he offered no alibis. Instead, he called it,

"A good old fashioned licking."

Brown said he was more concerned with Ohio State's game here Saturday against the Pittsburgh Panthers than he was with the Wisconsin whipping.

He said the Bucks weren't too impressed with the Panthers' season record of two wins and four defeats, but were expecting a tough game.

Two regular Ohio linemen—Left Tackle Bill Willis and Left End Dante Lavelli—won't be able to play, Brown said, indicating that this would add to the tough going.

He said he planned to start Don Stomberg of Toledo at Lavelli's end, with Don McCafferty of Cleveland filling in for the big Columbus tackle.

COACHES TEMPLE

PHILADELPHIA - (INS)— Josh Cody, football line coach today was named mentor of Temple university's basketball team to succeed Ernie Mosskowitz, now a lieutenant in the navy.

Jacobs Regain Punting Honors

CHICAGO — (AP) — Rookie Jack Jacobs of Cleveland, the slim Indian from Oklahoma, stayed in the National football league just long enough to displace Sammy Baugh of Washington as the champion punter.

Jacobs averaged 46.6 yards on six kicks against Brooklyn last Sunday, leaving after the game to report to the naval air corps. He averaged 42.3 yards on 33 punts during his term with the Rams.

* * *

In team statistics, Green Bay had traveled 2,224 yards with 1,499 the product of a marvelous passing game and only 725 by rushing. The Bears, on the other hand, arrived at their 2,013 yard total by running for 978 yards and passing for 1,035.

Defend Junior High Gridiron Title

Undefeated in three years of football competition with Johnny Appleseed's Pioneers, the John Simpson Bulldogs shown in the above picture will defend their Mansfield junior high championship tomorrow night when they meet Appleseed again at Stadium field. Members of the Simpson first team, who have made an enviable record for themselves this season, are shown in the first row of this squad picture.

Five Madison Rams Bow Out

Mt. Gilead Tilt Last For Senior Gridders.

Five Madison Rams will be playing their last high school football game tomorrow night when the Rams meet Mt. Gilead under the lights of Madison field.

Captain Harold Hammer, plucky little warhorse of the Ram backfield, who has earned four football letters in spite of his lack of poundage, heads the list of seniors bowing out of the Madison gridiron picture.

It will also be the finale for Gross, Rinehart, Poston and Spriesterbaugh, but Spriesterbaugh won't be playing. Instead he will see the game from an ambulance with Wayne Lanzen. Spriesterbaugh was injured in the Bellville game last week, and Lanzen was hurt in the Columbus North game.

Coach Al Fendrick was praying for good weather and a dry field as he prepared the Rams for the invasion by Mt. Gilead. "I don't think we'll have too much trouble with them if the footing is good," Fendrick said today, "but if it turns muddy, the Mt. Gilead weight advantage may make it uncomfortable for us.

"In fact the Mounts can be plenty tough if the going is heavy," Fendrick declared.

Rinehart probably will start at Spriesterbaugh's center position for the Rams tomorrow night, while Gross, who has been used in the backfield in recent games, will return to his position at left end.

Poston will be at the other end, Bishop and Morrison at the tackles, Campbell and Harfman at guards, and Hammer, Anthony, Bader and Wynn in the backfield.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Herb (How I Tried to Get That Kid) Kopf, Manhattan's football coach, puts forth what sounds like a sensible explanation for all the grid upsets this season. . . . Herb claims that the mental attitude of the players is responsible for 90 per cent of such surprises; that a "break" early in a game, can affect the outcome a lot more than most people think. . . . This year, Kopf reasons, "upsets" are more likely to occur than usual because of the youth of the players. . . . Squads are loaded up with sophomores and freshmen, who are more easily affected than players who have been through the mill.

HEADLINE HEADLINER.

When the Cardinals' Whitey Kurowski made a political speech in New Britain, Conn., the other night, Sports Ed. Bill Harding of the New Haven Journal-Courier scribbled off this head: "Kurowski Fattens Blatting Average."

SERVICE DEPT.

Looks as if the Cincinnati Reds' farm clubs were all at sea. Frank Lane, who operated the chain, went into the navy last spring and now his successor, Freddie Fleig, has received a navy lieutenant's commission. . . . From Quantico, Va., Marine Lieut. Jim "All America" Hackett reports that Lieut. Dick Fishell, "hero" of the Dartmouth-Cornell five downs incident a few years ago, finds some difference between football and war. . . . "They give you only one down here," says Dick, "and they don't want ten yards. They want a touchdown."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Tommy Fitzgerald, Louisville Courier-Journal: "In reading Heavyweight Bob Pastor's announcement that he has retired from the ring, one wonders if the bicycle shortage had anything to do with it."

CLEANING THE CUFF.

When Corp. Frank Strafaci, the amateur golf ace, sent a boomerang from Australia for the Sound View club to use as a tournament trophy, the weapon performed according to custom. The club decided to send the tournament entry fees right back to Frankie for a Christmas gift.

Baron Icers Still Have Perfect Slate

(By Associated Press)

The Cleveland Barons go into tonight's tussle with the Buffalo Bisons for the leadership of the American hockey league's western division as the only undefeated team in the circuit.

Cleveland and Buffalo are tied with six points apiece. The Hershey Bears, eastern section leaders, were removed from the unbeaten class last night when they took a 3-1 thumping from the Pittsburgh Hornets.

* * *

Pittsburgh's victory, coupled with a 2-2 tie between the Indianapolis Capitals and New Haven Eagles, tightened up the western race a bit. The Washington Lions broke into the victory column for the first time, beating Providence, 4-2.

Wife, 17, Refused Divorce From Her Pensioner Husband

ZANESVILLE — (INS) — Emma Sue Shipman, 17, still is the wife of 74-year-old Charles Shipman because she could not convince Common Pleas Judge P. H. Tannehill of the validity of her charge that her aged spouse "liked drink better than he did me."

The court dismissed Emma's divorce petition for lack of evidence, observing that there was nothing to prove that Shipman's personal habits had taken a turn for the worse since their marriage on Aug. 1, 1941.

Judge Tannehill further observed that the young wife and her mother, Mrs. Lulu Shipman, were fully aware of the husband's character before the May-December wedding. Emma had charged extreme cruelty and gross neglect.

The couple was married by a colored minister after they had been turned down by other clergymen. Shipman receives an old age pension.

'Tow Sawyer' to Be Presented at Simpson, Dec. 8

Mark Twain's immortal characters, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, will come to life on the stage of John Simpson auditorium Tuesday night, Dec. 8 when "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" is presented under the direction of Mrs. Alice Partello.

The cast of young people and adults is rehearsing twice a week in the probate court room and the players will include William Ingram in the role of "Tom Sawyer," and John Bishop in the part of "Huckleberry Finn." Mrs. Partello will also appear in the cast as "Mrs. Harper."

Sponsored by the Navy Mothers club the play in addition to providing amusement for the audiences will make possible the purchase of smokes and sweets for men entering navy service. The Navy Mothers' club presents candy and cigarets to each group of navy men leaving the city weekly on Wednesday.

Mrs. Florence Blunk, president of the club, has the role of "Widow Douglas," in the production, and the other characters include: "Aunt Polly," Mrs. Joy Herbert; "Mary," Peggy Ehalt; "Joe Harper," Dick Cox; "Becky Thatcher," JoAnn Beelman; "Susy Harper," Claudia Marks; "Sidney," Edwin Cook, and the sheriff, Roy Zimmerman.

If the U. S. could reduce its consumption of fuel oils ten per cent below last year's consumption, the resultant saving would equal the combined capacity of 566 ocean-going tankers.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

EACH DAY OF THE WEEK ..... TO .....

	LARGE ADS	MEDIUM ADS	SMALL ADS
Sun.
Mon.
Tues.
Wed.
Thurs.
Fri.
Sat.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

THEATERS

Newspaper Comedy.

The editor of a love-lorn column scores a scoop in "You Can't Escape Forever," the Ohio attraction, when he hits upon a clue that enables him to trap a gang of racketeers responsible for a reformer's death. A Lonely Hearts' club furnished a front for the racket. George Brent appears as the love-lorn editor while Brenda Marshall, Gene Lockhart, Roscoe Karns and Edward Ciannelli are in the supporting cast.

Crime Thriller.

A killer who feigns deafness and dumbness when it suits his weird plans to frustrate detection is the central character in "Phantom Killer," the Ritz attraction. John Hamilton is cast as a diabolical fiend who murders his financial benefactors when bank notes fall due. Dick Purcell, Warren Hymer and Joan Woodbury are in the cast. "Death Cell," with James Mason is the second feature.

Held Over

Held over through Friday by popular demand, "My Sister Eileen," the Madison attraction, describes the merry adventures of two Columbus, O., girls who go to New York to win fame and fortune. A Greenich Village apartment that takes on an animation and a life all of its own furnishes the locale of the picture and the supporting cast includes Rosalind Russell, Janet Blair, Brian Aherne and Allyn Joslyn. Miss Russell plays a would-be writer and Miss Blair, her stage-struck sister. "Sin Town," with Constance Bennett is the co-feature.

Murder Mystery.

A murder mystery with a new twist, "The Panther's Claw," opening at the Park today, deals with a series of crimes that all point to a timid little wig-maker. The latter supplies wigs to an opera company which loses its manager through a murder. Sidney Blackmer, Bryan Foulger and Herbert Rawlinson headline the cast. "The Bandit Trail," with Tim Holt and Janet Waldo is the co-feature.

TOWN HALL MEETING PROGRAM PRESENTED AT SENIOR HIGH

Assembly program for Senior high school pupils yesterday was a junior town meeting conducted by the Social Science Service club in keeping with World Government day, Nov. 11, set aside by John W. Studebaker, chairman of National Education association in Washington, D. C.

Coming from the American Educational Press in Columbus, Byron B. Williams acted as moderater for the meeting in charge of Tom Wolford, chairman "What form of organization will be best for the post-war world?" was the question before the assembly group.

First speaker William Gandert, suggested his form for the world federation and court and gave the introduction. Virginia Marion proposed military organization and disposition of colonies. Economic organization with relation to trade and currency was the plan offered by William Campbell. Joan Obermeyer said there must be a fight for freedom—social, educational and industrial.

After the speakers presented their points a round table discussion was held having audience participation with Miss Emma Waring, J. C. Stout, Robert McFarland and L. E. Rahn acting as judges. Final evaluation speech was given by Rahn in which he said that if the Christian attitude could be attained post-war peace would be lasting.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES ON RECOVERY PATH

Gasoline Stores of Nation Dwindle But Fuel Oil Supplies Increase.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks generally shifted to the recovery path in today's early market transactions.

Up fractionally at a fairly active opening were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Chrysler, Crucible Steel, Texas Co., Union Carbide and American Telephone.

Holders of oils noted the survey of the America Petroleum Institute disclosing that, while all fuel oil supplies increased during the week ended Oct. 31, stores of gasoline dwindled.

Trend analysts studied the Dun & Brastreet compilation indicating bank clearings in 23 cities for the week concluded Wednesday topped the comparable period a year ago by 3.4 per cent.

31 DIE AS U. S. SHIP GOES DOWN

Blame Loss of Life on Failure To Get Abandon Ship Order.

AN EAST COAST PORT—(AP)—Thirty-one crewmen perished when their United States merchant ship sank 90 seconds after she was torpedoed off the north coast of South America late in September, 19 survivors reported on their arrival here. The navy announced the sinking today

Survivors told naval officers they attributed the heavy loss of life to the fact that although a general alarm was sounded following the attack, no order to abandon ship was given. The crew waited in orderly fashion for the order until only a few moments remained in which they believed it possible to launch lifeboats.

With the ship listing to port and water rushing over the decks, the crew found it impossible to launch the boats.

GOP VICTORY SHAKES FDR'S CONGRESS GRIP

Dems Still Retain Majority But Republicans Cut 'Comfortable Lead.'

who shall be president of the United States.

That does not necessarily mean that those states would have gone Republican in a presidential election. But politicians will give them due weight in estimating 1944 prospects.

All aspects of the returns indicate an anti-administration trend. But majority party losses are normal in off year elections. They are important in proportion to their extent.

Congress remains solidly behind the administration on fighting and winning the war. Big war appropriations will continue to highball through house and senate but on other issues it looks like the president is in for legislative troubles.

There were heavy New Deal casualties in the northeast and midwest but the south came through with its customary quota of walkover victories for Democrats who frequently line up against the administration on domestic questions although voting for all-out war.

Labor, social security and administration tax policies apparently are in for more opposition than heretofore and Mr. Roosevelt probably will be compelled to change his patterns somewhat under new legislative pressure.

Increased Republican strength can be expected to lead to further anti-administration maneuvers, notably on manpower which looks like the next big issue up for decision.

In general, the outstanding targets of New Deal, liberal or left-wing attack were returned to office. Most notable were the successes of Sen. C. Wayland Brooks (R., Ill.), Rep.-at-Large Stephen A. Day (R., Ill.), Rep. Hamilton Fish (R., N. Y.), Rep. Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.), and Rep. Dewey Short (R., Mo.)

On the other hand, some of the administration's best friends were among the missing.

Of the nine seats definitely won by the Republicans, one was at the expense of the grand old man of farm belt progressive politics, Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska who started out as an unbeatable young Prairie state Republican and wound up Tuesday night as a defeated $1-year-old independent.

Rep. Frank E. Hook (D., Mich.), an ardent administrationite, was licked and so was the capable Sen. Prentiss Brown likewise a Michigan Democrat.

But the biggest surprise came from Oklahoma. Sen. Josh Lee, a New Deal Democrat and elocutionist of rare ability, was bumped out after one senate term in which he had distinguished himself by support of the administration and a rider to the 18-year-old draft act which would have established wartime prohibition for military establishments and the areas in their vicinities.

HOSTAGES SHOT

London Hears 322 Killed by Nazis During One Month.

LONDON —(AP)— The Germans shot 322 hostages in two towns of northwestern Yugoslavia last month in reprisal for the blowing up of a military transport train, officials of the Yugoslav government-in-exile here said today.

A Reuters dispatch from Zurich quoted reports from Yugoslavia that in the town of Mozirje five boys had been shot for refusing to join the German army and their parents had been deported.

TAKE CONTROL OF LEGISLATURE

from 138 to 136 by reapportionment—19 Democrats and 55 Republicans, while in the senate 13 Republican and two Democratic incumbents were re-elected.

Domination of the legislature also will enable the Republicans, provided they do not start fighting among themselves, to carry out more effectively the policies of Governor Bricker.

And these policies may figure in the governor's political future. His election by a margin of nearly 375,000 votes over Democrat John McSweeney carried him nearer the limelight as a 1944 presidential possibility.

The Bricker majority was the greatest ever accorded a candidate for governor in Ohio, despite the fact that Tuesday's turnout of voters was the lightest since inauguration of woman suffrage in 1920.

As Bricker carried all but two of the 88 counties, his party colleagues swept state offices by margins ranging from 187,162 to 369,121 votes.

WESTINGHOUSE JOINS UPWARD STOCK CLIMB

Election Holiday Fails To Halt Recovery Trend on Wall Street Boards.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market leaders pushed up fractions to around a point in early dealings today, continuing an advance which was in progress at Monday's close.

In higher ground were Westinghouse, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Standard Oil (N. J.), Sperry, Chrysler, Consolidated Edison and Pennsylvania.

More evidence pointing to an acceleration of decline in the industrial profits curb as war and defense business expanded was provided by a survey of the national industrial conference board which disclosed that such trades as metal products, automotive and chemical manufacture had lower profit margins in 1941 as compared with earlier years.

The analysis reported that earnings on sales, after taxes, dropped to 5.4 per cent from 6.1 per cent in 1940 and 5.6 per cent in 1936.

Kidneys Must Function Well

For You To Be Healthy

Every hour never stopping. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. The process of urine secretion goes on constantly at the rate of about a drop every thirty seconds from each kidney. They help most people to pass about three pints daily. Try BEE BEE'S a liquid diuretic.

having a tight race in his eastern Kentucky mining district, and the outcome was definitely in doubt.

So far Democrats have elected 176 representatives, mostly in the south; Republicans have elected 145.

The solid Democratic Maryland delegation had been cracked once and a second seat was in jeopardy.

Republicans unseated 21 incumbent Democrats throughout the nation and elected a Pennsylvania member at-large.

But Democrats had ousted two incumbent Republicans. They were Joshua Johns of Wisconsin and William T. Pheiffer of New York.

Democratic incumbents defeated were: Herman P. Kippleman and Leroy D. Downs, Connecticut; Philip A. Traynor, Delaware; William S. Jacobsen, Iowa; M. A. Romjue, Richard M. Duncan and John B. Sullivan, Missouri; William H. Sutphin, New Jersey; Alfred Beiter, New York; Greg Holbrock, Jacob E. Davis, John F. Hunter, Harold K. Claypool, Dow W. Harter, William R. Thom and Lawrence E. Imhoff, Ohio; Leon Sacks, Francis R. Smith and Harry Haines, Pennsylvania, and Laurence F. Arnold, Illinois.

In New York the congressional lineup showed little change except for the possibility that the two Republican candidates at-large had ridden in on Thomas E. Dewey's gubernatorial victory.

Joseph Mruk defeated Rep. Alfred F. Beiter (D., N.Y.), but Rep. William T. Pheiffer (R., N. Y.) lost to Democrat James H. Fay by a 41-vote margin which may be contested.

Two Democratic seats were known to be lost in Pennsylvania's election of Republican state officials. James Gallagher defeated Rep. Leon Sacks (D., Pa.) and Frederick Pracht unseated Rep. Francis R. Smith (D., Pa.)

Daniel Ellison, Republican, broke the Democratic solidarity of the Maryland delegation, defeating John M. Wyatt, who won Democratic nomination from incumbent John A. Meyer. Rep. Philip Traynor (D., Del.) was unseated by Republican Earle D. Willey.

POUND FLEEING DESERT ARMY

GOP Victory Shakes FDR Congress Grip

PARTY HOLDS AT LEAST 206 HOUSE SEATS

Dems Keep Slight Edge With 218 Representatives, 56 Senators.

ALL BACK WAR EFFORT

President's Control Over Labor, Domestic Issues In Jeopardy.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — President Roosevelt's control of congress on labor and other domestic issues was jeopardized today though nearly complete general election returns showed that the Democrats won a bare majority of the house of representatives.

The Republicans gained 41 house seats and will have at least 206 seats in the new house convening the first week of January. The Democrats have won 218 seats, a majority. The Progressives have two seats and the Farmer-Labor and American-Labor parties have one each. Seven seats were still undecided early today.

With one contest in Montana still in doubt, the Republicans gained nine seats in the upper house for a total of 38. The Democrats will have 56 seats in the new senate and the Progressives will have one. The new 78th congress meets the first week of January. Control of the senate was not at stake in this election.

Democratic majorities have been unexpectedly reduced. Democrats in the house will be painfully short of the comfortable working majorities they have enjoyed since the first New Deal landslide in 1932.

Republicans on Tuesday elected more senators and representatives than in any election since 1928. And the G. O. P. made important gubernatorial gains in New York, California, Michigan and Connecticut, although they lost a governor to the Progressive party in Wisconsin.

It is fair to say that the Republicans carried 20 states which represents 287 electoral votes—more than a majority of the electoral college which determines

Ohioans Put Control In GOP Hands

Give Republicans Clear Majority In State's General Assembly.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Complete unofficial returns in the secretary of state's office today disclosed that John A. Corlett, Cuyahoga county Republican, defeated Clarence Young, Democrat, to give the Republicans 28 seats and the Democrats five in the Ohio senate.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A short session of the state legislature starting next January devoted chiefly to matters pertaining to the war effort was promised today by Gov. John W. Bricker.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio voters, besides selecting Republicans to run the state government during the next two years, entrusted them with almost sole responsibility for the enactment of state legislation.

When the 95th general assembly convenes in January, third-term Gov. John W. Bricker will find members of his party in absolute control and thus empowered to enact laws which they consider most beneficial.

In the house of representatives will be 111 Republicans and 25 Democrats; in the senate, 28 Republicans and five Democrats.

The Republicans will not have to spend time wooing Democratic cooperation as they did in the 1941-42 legislature, in which the lineup was: house, 78 Republicans, 60 Democrats; senate, 19 Republicans, 17 Democrats.

Having better than a two-thirds majority, they can enact emergency legislation which will not be subject to a referendum of the voters.

To set up this situation, the voters unseated 28 Democratic representatives and seven Democratic senators in Tuesday's election. Among them was Rep. H. L. Mason, the house Democratic leader. The senate Democratic leader, William M. Boyd of Cleveland, was re-elected.

The electorate returned to the house — its membership reduced

FDR RETURNS

Back at White House After Election Visit at Home.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Roosevelt returned to his desk at the White House today after spending several days at his home in Hyde Park, N. Y., where he went to cast his ballot in the off-year elections.

Mr. Roosevelt's return to Washington was announced by his secretary, Stephen T. Early. Asked for presidential comment on the outcome of Tuesday's voting, Early told reporters that he had not discussed the matter with the chief executive.

Returning to his desk, the president found waiting for his determination a comprehensive report on the war manpower problem drawn up by the war manpower advisory committee and submitted to the president by Paul V. McNutt.

STOPS PRACTICE

Judge Bans Future Chance For "Enlist Or Be Sentenced."

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Robbery offenders facing Judges Frank S. Day and Charles J. McNamee no longer will be given an opportunity to escape sentence by joining the army.

Reason for ending the practice, the common pleas judges said today, was that word had spread among young criminals that they could commit robberies without fear of imprisonment.

BERLIN — (From German Broadcasts) — A special communique from the Fuehrer's headquarters declared today that "in far-flung operations extending from the Arctic to waters south of Madagascar German submarines have inflicted fresh heavy losses upon the enemy transport fleets," claiming the sinking of 26 freighters totaling 168,000 tons.

(These claims lacked confirmation from any other quarters.)

George M. Cohan, Leading Figure In American Theater, Dies at 64

Wrote 'Over There,' Was On the Stage For 54 Years.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—George M. Cohan, the Yankee Doodle Dandy who wrote the best war song since "Dixie," died today in the midst of a new world war for which "Over There" might mean any part of the globe.

He died at 5 a. m., in his Fifth avenue apartment, surrounded by his wife, his son, George jr., and his daughters, Mary and Helen. Cohan, 64, succumbed to an intestinal ailment which forced him to undergo an operation a year ago (Oct. 19, 1941) and from which he never fully recovered.

The song and dance man—his own choice as the most fitting summation of his 54 years in the theater—still was enfeebled from the long, eventually fatal illness when Japan struck at Pearl Harbor. He wrote another war song. The tune was sprightly, with the old Cohan lilt, and the words rang true, but it was not the perfect wedding of lyrics and music which made "Over There" the marching song of a million Yanks.

On the eve of publication it was decided to let the song rest on the shelf. That decision fulfilled his own intuition, expressed two years ago, when he said:

"I hope America will never need another war song. But if we do need one, it will have to be written by some young fellow."

Cohan lived through the heyday of the American theater and was a star in every phase of popular entertainment. He saw vaudeville reach its zenith and perish, and was one of its

Death today had silenced the voice which brought laughter from thousands in "It Pays to Advertise"; it had stilled the feet which danced through "Yankee Doodle Dandy," and it had blunted the pen which composed "Over There." For George M. Cohan, shown above getting ready for one of his thousands of stage appearances, died last night at the age of 64. He had been connected with the American theater for 54 years.

Allied Troops, Planes Pursue Rommel Force

9,000 Axis Prisoners Stream to Rear From Graveyard of Twisted Tanks And Equipment; Foe's Supply Lines Under Air Attack.

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO—Weakened by the loss of thousands of men captured, killed, wounded or isolated in their desert strongpoints, a once-proud Axis army was in full flight today across western Egypt in a frantic hunt for position to avert destruction.

Only a rearward moving screen of anti-tank guns and tanks shielded the bulk of Marshal Rommel's African corps from the pressing advance of a United Nations army—the Eighth British—while a comparatively impotent air force sought to parry the combined blows of American and British imperial airmen.

While 9,000 prisoners (by a count already 24 hours old) streamed dejectedly to the British rear, the Allied air forces kept hitting at the foe, and the main coastal line of retreat was described as a veritable graveyard of smoking, twisted tanks, armored cars and trucks.

(The Axis, with Rome acknowledging severe losses, said that Italian and German armies had withdrawn to new lines in the west. The Germans denied that their front had been breached.

(The Italian communique, however, indicated the depth of the Eighth army's drive—at least its tank spearheads—when it told of "fierce and bloody fighting" by tank and infantry forces of both sides between El Alamein and Fuka.

(Fuka is about 70 miles to the west of El Alamein. The British have not announced their present positions.)

It was believed that Rommel has no large reserves behind him, either in western Egypt or Libya.

The sudden collapse of the Axis defenses was announced last night in a British communique after 12 days of furious fighting in which the Allies were said to have taken a tremendous toll of Rommel's men and equipment.

Today's communique told of a continuing British advance on all sectors of the front, with enemy tanks and anti-tank guns attempting to fight a rearguard action along the coastal road in the north—the main avenue of retreat.

At the southern end of the narrow front, Axis forces were reported still holding out in a few isolated positions, but it appeared that the British were by-passing these in their general advance.

Allied planes kept the retreating Axis forces under heavy attack and the dwindling air force at Rommel's command was kept strictly on the defensive. Except for one divebombing attack, which was quickly broken up by Allied fighters, the British ground forces were unmolested from the air.

Intent on keeping reinforcements from reaching Rommel, Allied bombers and torpedo carrying planes also blasted at his overseas supply lines, damaging a tanker and a heavily laden merchant vessel and scoring three hits on escorting destroyers, the communique said.

The British reported destruction of 13 Axis aircraft yesterday

'BRILLIANT VICTORY': King Describes Rout of Axis Army

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—King George VI described the rout of Marshal Erwin Rommel's African forces as a brilliant victory and his phrases set the pace for elated comment by normally restrained British military observers today.

The London Daily Express said Axis losses probably already totaled not less than 40,000 men killed, wounded or captured, along with 80 per cent of the available air strength and at least half the gun power.

It was estimated that more than 50 per cent of the German and Italian armored forces were represented by 260 tanks sacrificed in a vain attempt to halt the westward push.

Well-informed observers who cannot be named said Rommel controlled about 300 Nazi tanks and possibly 200 of Italian manufacture when the Allied offensive opened the night of Oct. 23.

The British radio hammered the story home to the peoples of Germany, Italy and the Nazi-occupied and neutral nations of Europe with broadcast after broadcast in many tongues.

King George congratulated Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, British Middle East commander, field officers and men for the cooperative blow by Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's Eighth army, the RAF and the royal navy. He said its importance "cannot be exaggerated."

"I can assure all three services, embracing as they do many representatives of the British commonwealth and our Allies, of the admiration and pride of the whole empire in their brilliant victory . . .," he said.

While caution was combined with optimism, the Daily Sketch said "We shall probably find that the Eighth army performed as great a feat as any of the war."

"Here is a second front Hitler dares no longer ignore," the London Daily Mail declared.

INDUSTRY TO LOCATE HERE

Plant Making Jewelry, Leather Goods to Employ 75; Moves From Detroit.

A new industry which is expected to employ at least 75 persons within two or three months will be established immediately in the Perry Vegetable Compound building, 30 North Foster street, the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce announced today.

Negotiations were completed yesterday for moving the offices and plant of the National Ring corporation here from Detroit, Mich., and transfer of the equipment was started today.

The firm has been manufacturing novelty jewelry, including Indian bracelets, rings, and pins, but because of the scarcity of metal, it will convert a part of its facilities to the making of leather novelties. A part of the output is expected to go into the war program, the Chamber of Commerce announcement said.

In Mansfield, the company will operate under the title of the National Ring and Leather corporation. G. F. Wadsworth is president of the company and Ralph H. Ide is secretary-treasurer. Both will make their headquarters in Mansfield.

The company will begin operations here in about two weeks, starting with approximately 25 employes, the Chamber of Commerce said. The number of employes will be increased later.

Negotiations for leasing the Parry building were completed through George C. Kyle, realtor.

White House Has No Comment On Republican Triumph.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House was silent today on the Republican gains in Tuesday's elections.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Irwin Kadens, Chicago army deserter who turned desperado in a career of crime extending over four states, today was under sentence to spend the rest of his days in the asylum for the criminal insane at Menard, Ill.

Within a span of two hours Kadens was found insane yesterday in criminal court and was sentenced to the institution for criminal insane by Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro. The testimony, in which the bandit was held to be a schizophreniac, was supplied by five psychiatrists.

As the verdict of insanity was pronounced Kadens jumped up and shouted: "I protest. I want to be tried on a death penalty offense."

Ohioans Spend $5,000,000 For Liquor In Week.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Liquor sales of Ohio's monopoly stores skyrocketed to a record at approximately $5,049,000 last week as tax-conscious consumers dodged new federal liquor taxes.

This represents an increase of $1,906,541, or nearly 38 per cent over the previous seven-day peak.

NEW JUDGE UP TO GOVERNOR

Bricker To Name Successor To Kalbfleisch Under New State Amendment.

When Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, elected Tuesday to the Richland county common pleas bench, assumes his new office, Feb. 9, his successor in municipal court will be named by Gov. John W. Bricker.

Judge Kalbfleisch is now serving his second term as municipal judge, a term that does not expire until Dec. 31, 1943. The Ohio constitutional amendment approved by voters Tuesday brings an end to election of short-term judges by giving the governor the appointive power.

There was speculation in some quarters in the city today that Atty. Herbert H. Schettler who serves as acting municipal judge during Judge Kalbfleisch's absences may be a candidate for appointment. Atty. Lydon H. Beam was mentioned as another possibility.

The judge, who has been coordinator of Mansfield civilian defense since the latter was organized, said that he expects to continue his duties as co-ordinator

Battery D on Job In Pacific, Wins Beightler Praise

Mansfield's Battery D is a part of the U. S. Army's 37th division which today received praise from its commander, Major General Robert S. Beightler, former Ohio highway director, for its activities in the Pacific.

"The division has been holding certain islands in the Pacific that are considered the most important of all 'stepping stones' with the exception of Hawaii and Australia," Beightler informed his friend, Major Harry H. Kerr, Camp Perry executive officer.

This information was approved for general newspaper use by the office of censorship after it appeared in army publications.

As shown on standard maps, major allied-held islands which might be considered "stepping stones" include New Zealand, the New Hebrides, the Fijis, New Caledonia, part of New Guinea and the Samoas.

Many Mansfield men are known to be on these islands while others, with New York postoffice addresses, have been unable to tell their relatives on which of them they are located.

FDR War Aid Re-elected By Slim Margin in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— Rep. A. J. (Jack) May, one of President Roosevelt's chief war aids, won re-election by the narrowest of margins in the Seventh district, and Sen. A. B. (Happy) Chandler was returned to office for a full six-year term, virtually complete unofficial returns from Kentucky precincts showed today.

May's return to congress as chairman of the important military affairs committee was fought by United Mine Workers and their president, John L. Lewis, but tabulations from 362 of the Seventh's 383 precincts gave the representative a margin of 22,138 votes to 21,627 for Dr. Elmer E. Gabbard, Republican.

No votes were cast in one precinct.

Fighting French Paratroopers Land Behind Axis Lines.

LONDON —(INS)— Paratroopers of the fighting French forces operating behind Axis lines in Egypt are dealing heavy blows to the enemy, a Reuter dispatch from Beirut said today.

The parachutists are destroying isolated tanks and aircraft in daring raids on Axis strong points such as Barka and Martouba. It was estimated that at least 100 enemy aircraft already have been destroyed.

Launch Drive to Buy Bomber With Bonds During November

Mansfield women's clubs are going to literally "Keep 'em Flying."

They will do it by selling war bonds during the month of November—Women's War Bond month—in an effort to raise $175,000 for the purchase of a medium-sized bomber to help beat the Axis.

Sales will be conducted on a competitive basis and the contest is open to all women's organizations having eight or more members and which holds regular meetings with elected or appointed officers.

Plans for the campaign were launched last night at a meeting of defense chairmen from all women's organizations in the city called by Mrs. Louis J. Ott, head of the women's division for war bond sales in Richland county.

Approximately 150 attended the session in the Chamber of Commerce rooms where the plan was explained by Paul Endriss, publicity director for the campaign. Thirty-eight clubs representing 3,400 members signified their intention of participating in the campaign last night and many others will be added to the competition before the deadline for registration, Nov. 10.

Permission to purchase the bomber was obtained by the Rich-

BATTERING: U. S. Troops Push Foe Backward on Guadacanal

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Persistent battering of the Japanese by land and air gave American and Allied fighters fresh ground gains today in besieged Guadalcanal and New Guinea.

Further widening an attempted Japanese vise that threatened to close on the American-held airfield in Guadalcanal, United States Marines and soldiers forced back the enemy's western flank, capturing about 20 machine guns and two small field artillery pieces in the process.

In New Guinea, westward of the Solomon islands, Allied troops under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian command overcame "strong enemy resistance" and plunged on through the jungles toward the Japanese coastal base at Buna.

Supported by army and navy planes that strafed and bombed the Nipponese troops and positions, the United States forces inched forward along beaches and through dense underbrush Monday (south Pacific time) to relieve the pressure on the important Guadalcanal airbase.

At the other end of the newly installed enemy vise, east of Henderson airport, recently landed Japanese troops presumably were manipulating for a thrust at the springboard of the American aerial assault on the foe's ships, troops and installations.

For obvious reasons, the navy gave no hint of what reception the American forces were preparing for the Nipponese fleet in

PEOPLE EAT AS THEY WORK IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Soldiers Get Best Food While Workers in Heavy Industries Are Next on List.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—You don't eat if you don't work in Soviet Russia.

Everyone eats according to the value of his or her work. The best food in Russia today is to be found at the front. There are no luxuries for anyone, but the soldiers on the firing line know, at least, that nobody at home is faring better than they are.

The government and people have insisted the bulk of everything go to the army. So, among the defenders of Stalingrad, there are many soldiers who are more worried about their mothers and fathers, their wives and children, than they are about themselves.

This is true of most armies, but, in the Red army, it is based on the knowledge that the private is getting more than his wife. People behind the lines want it that way; it is all they can do in the face of the terrible casualty lists that come in every day.

Fat men are so rare in Soviet Russia they are considered a curiosity. There is an American correspondent in Moscow who weighs over two hundred pounds, mostly muscle; he was once mentioned on several all-American football teams. But he is big, and he looks well-fed; consequently, he attracts attention on the streets. Small boys follow him, and women look at him admiringly, the military police, of course, are constantly stopping him and asking for his papers. He just doesn't look Russian.

Although supplies have been reduced, there is no actual starvation today in the Soviet union. Workers in factories eat lunch at their canteens, and this is invariably the big meal of the day. Dieticians watch over the menu carefully.

Miners receive more food than office workers, there is no favortism because of rank. Food is distributed solely on the basis of needs and services. This system works admirably, and now, although shortages are beginning to be felt, its advantages can be seen in the nation's morale. There is no grumbling because of unfairness and the men and women that the country needs most are physically fitted for their tasks.

A sample day's menu for a miner, or a worker in heavy industry is as follows: Breakfast—Tea, probably without sugar, black bread, and a pudding of ground meal; Lunch—Cabbage soup containing slices of meat and possibly turnips, then a main dish of meat and rice; Supper—The same as breakfast during the winter, but with vegetables or salad during the summer.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL, VICTORY CIVIC AGENCIES WORTHY ONES

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of articles on the agencies participating in funds collected in the Community War Chest campaign in Mansfield and Richland county. Each of the articles will deal with one Community Fund organization at home, and one War Chest agency. A "Commando" army of 500 starts Nov. 9 on its objective of raising $140,377.)

St. Vincent de Paul.

Established in Mansfield since 1931 the St. Vincent de Paul society, Catholic charitable organization, has brought relief and comfort to almost numberless children and families during 11 years of continuous operation.

Part of a world-wide movement organized to provide material relief to the aged, deserted, wayward and families in borderline or low income groups the society has functioned in Mansfield through private contributions until admitted to the Mansfield Community Fund the past summer.

Budgeted to receive $4,700 from the Community War Chest the society will use this amount to supply food, clothing, bedding, fuel, rent, medical aid and other necessities to individuals and families where it is needed.

Founded in France in 1833 under the leadership of Frederick Ozanam, a French student and professor, the society was established in this country in 1845. The Mansfield branch has functioned since Sept. 20, 1931, and now has a central office and worker to expedite its service.

Civic Victory Committee.

The Richland Civic Victory committee, the organization that speeds every county contingent of service men on its way with a farewell party, is budgeted to receive $4,000 in the Community War Chest.

Organized two years ago under the name of the Soldiers-Citizens' committee the organization gives parties once a month to the men leaving for service. The affairs include an entertaining program, a buffet supper and the gift of a small service kit.

It is estimated that close to 5,000 men have shared in these parties outside of a large number of guests. The allocation received by the organization will make possible the continuance of these "send-offs," which heretofore have been financed by individual and group contributions.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1942.

What! Can it be possible! Only 41 more shopping days until Christmas!

It's probably no more than a coincidence, but it does seem odd that gasoline rationing is to become effective just before Thanksgiving.

A milk shortage is predicted—and there's just a possibility, of course, that some of the coffee hoarders will now rush to lay in a supply of milk.

Voters Rebuke Wasteful Spending

DISSATISFACTION, not disunity, is seen in the anti-administration swing in Tuesday's elections, and it seems quite clear, as former President Herbert Hoover said yesterday: "Our enemies can get no comfort from this election," as all candidates for upper and lower houses of congress were pledged to vigorous and efficient prosecution of the war.

The rebuke to congress, which may also be interpreted as a rebuke to the executive branch of federal government, was a frank expression of majority public belief that, both before and since Pearl Harbor, there has been too much dilly-dallying in various phases of the national war program, too much catering to minority groups and too much wasteful spending for non-military purposes.

The over-manning of government departments in Washington and the spread of expensively maintained regulatory agencies over the country, with costs running into untold millions of dollars, are matters of concern among many people who are gladly aiding war efforts to the extent of their financial ability but who resent the waste that can be seen on all sides.

While it may be a small matter, in relation to the whole national spending program, there has been a rumble of local discontent over the apparently expensive setup of federal rent control in this area, not in the matter of personnel but on the basis of cost to taxpayers, as it is becoming more generally recognized that the federal government pays out nothing that must not eventually be paid back in the form of taxes. When the planned cost of rent control in this one small area is multiplied by extending administration throughout the United States, and when this is added to administrative expenses of other restrictive measures an appalling total is reached.

Whatever the legitimate needs of prosecuting the war may be—these will be met, however great the sacrifice becomes, but the demand becomes sharper and more insistent that money which the people of America are being called upon to pay, both in taxes and the purchase of government securities, be devoted to actual war purposes, not to further extravagant experimentation in New Deal theories—at least until after the war has been won.

Study Distribution of Doctors

NOW THAT the first rush of calling doctors into military service is over, it may be hoped that some better method of recruiting medical men will be hit upon than the unplanned procedure thus far.

While first call will be for adequate medical and surgical care for sick and wounded service men, which, it is estimated, will require 50,000 doctors for an army of 7,500,000 anticipated by this time next year, the importance of medical attendance for the civil population, rural and urban, dare not be overlooked if the home front is to be kept up to required health standards.

It is distribution, rather than actual scarcity, that will present the most serious problem, and a senate sub-committee is now attempting to find a way to assure small communities of sufficient medical care.

This committee has called for a prompt resurvey and reallocation, saying "a tremendous over-militarization of doctors is occurring." Normal uneven distribution of doctors between cities and villages, it is pointed out, is becoming more disproportionate, possibly due to some doctors in rural districts finding army pay scales more attractive than private practice, it has been suggested.

The pre-war average in civil life was a doctor for every 700 persons, but based on estimated army needs, within a year there will be no more than one doctor for every 3,000 persons.

This seems to be a matter not only for government investigation but also for thoughtful consideration by the doctors themselves, who may be in position to offer valuable suggestions on the subject.

Start To Save Empty Tin Cans

SALVAGE of tin cans, which is already off to a good start in some parts of the country and is now getting under way here, presents a difficulty that may require a little more patriotic effort than has yet been necessary in the waste paper or metal drive.

It has been asked, it will be recalled, that empty tin cans be washed clean, that the paper label be removed, the bottom cut out, and the can flattened, so as to facilitate handling and conserve shipping space.

Persons who depend on the sort of can opener that presents difficulties in puncturing and removing the top may shudder at the thought of having to repeat this process with the bottom of the empty can—but it can be done, and this is an emergency in which tin is essential to production of airplane parts, machine gun mounts, communication equipment and other military appliances—with no substitutes for many of its uses.

So save the empty tin cans and have them ready when the time comes for collection.

End Short-Term Judgeships

EXCEPT that it follows a common political pattern, it's hard to understand why action wasn't taken long ago to dispense with the short-term election of judges—an absurd provision in the state constitution which might easily have been changed years ago.

When given an opportunity last Tuesday Ohio voters approved the submitted amendment by more than 2 to 1, thus correcting an expensive and confusing mistake that prevented common sense procedure in filling judicial vacancies.

With coffee rationed, cigaret taxes hiked and liquor prices advanced, "habits" are rapidly becoming more expensive.

It's the girl in uniform who has the glamor now.

WAITING FOR THE OTHER SHOE TO DROP

Why Hitler Kills War Prisoners

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—That Herr Hitler deliberately wants to provoke the anti-Axis countries into butchering their German war prisoners is taken for granted in Washington and London, and maybe elsewhere throughout the world.

He aims to do it, it's assumed, by beginning to kill the prisoners he takes, in the expectation that their various countries will retaliate in kind.

That's the interpretation placed on his abandonment of Nazi recognition of the Geneva Convention, which was drawn to end wartime's inhumanities as far as possible, and which pledged its signatories, among other things, to decent treatment of helpless captives in their opposing midsts.

The supposition is that Hitler senses a German inclination to give up and plans to counteract it by convincing his followers that, if they do, they'll be massacred.

The United Nations' murder of a considerable number of their captured Nazis might give such an impression, and the Fuehrer hopes to irritate the democracies into doing their desired part, by slaughtering some of their soldiers in his own hands. The Germans it's proposed to have sacrificed may not fancy the idea, but presumably they're not to be consulted.

Something of a problem will be presented to the democracies, too.

Highly Aggravating.

It will be a decided aggravation to have the Nazis killing their nationals without reciprocating against their captured enemies. Nevertheless, they're likely to have more scruples in the matter than Herr Hitler is apt to have.

As an indication that Adolf is worried concerning his countrymen's morale, the prospect isn't democratically unfavorable.

Symptoms of anxiety in him have been noted for some time, however.

They're explicable.

For one item, he naturally imperatively needs his military force 100 per cent on his fighting front, and he has to hold about half of it for police duty in his temporarily conquered but simmering neighboring areas.

Pierre Laval's portion of France is frazzling out.

The African west coast is a Nazi bother, with U. S. troops landing in Liberia and threatening Dakar, which is too inconvenient for Germany to reach overland and which it hasn't the naval strength to protect oceanically.

Italy, as a Nazi ally, has gone all to pieces.

Spain's previously sympathetic Falangist government may still be sympathetic, but it's ceased, doubtless because it's lost confidence in the Fuehrer's final chances, to continue as a possible ally presently.

Chile, as a South American friend, is on its way out, and Argentina is turning clammy.

Japan never did have any interest, except its own, in the Axis.

If the Nazis are compelled to rely, now, upon the hoped-for murder of German prisoners, by the democracies, to hold the Fatherland itself in line, the guessing is that Adolf's justified in a good bit of pessimism—though of course he doesn't plead guilty to any.

Listen World!

What Price 'Rights'?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S MAD. And she doesn't care who knows it. The rumpus started, as thousands of them do, when she went to work in the shipyard where her husband also had a job. She enjoyed it at first. It was swell, getting out with the morning crowd, talking and laughing together, going into the great, crowded rooms where something was always happening.

Something always happening—it seemed to bring her alive again. She was only 26, but she had grown so sick of the deadly routine of housework and household chores. The silent rooms. Her husband's peevish demands when he came home tired. The monotonous care of the baby. Love the baby? Of course she did. But, after all, a baby was only a baby. And you got sick of doing the same things over and over. Especially when you're young.

But now the baby was in a day nursery. And she was free. Free as she had never been before. Free to do the work she wanted . . . to feel the excitement she craved . . . to choose her own friends. Free, best of all, to collect her pay check. Her own money! The marvel of it. Already she felt ten years younger.

It was glorious, this freedom. It was a new world!

Then, suddenly, the glory faded. Collapsed like a bubble on her second pay day, when her husband demanded that she pay half of the household bills!

Pay bills? Why should she pay bills? That was a husband's job, not a wife's. Why should any husband expect a wife to pay half the expenses? Wives had always worked, done tiresome household chores. But wives had never paid expenses. Why should she pay them now? Only a tyrant would expect a woman to help pay the cost of his home and his child!

The row began at the supper table. It has continued ever since. There was that time when the furniture company took the installment-payment radio away. Then the rug went, then the refrigerator. Each time her bitterness grew greater. Why should she be expected to pay her share on these things? Suppose she did work—wasn't this her money? Why should a man expect her to spend her money on his home? So it went, over and over. The wrangling. The bitter accusations. The tears and, sometimes, blows.

For he, of course, couldn't see it as she did. It was true, he admitted, that men had once brought in the bacon while the wife tended the home and children. That was only fair. But this new way—this wasn't fair. Now a woman wanted all the freedom a man had but she wouldn't accept the responsibilities. She wanted the right to leave her home and baby and go to work, but she wasn't willing to share the price for her privilege.

What kind of wife was that?

You think it's an "unusual circumstance?" Then get over it. For you're reading the sorest "case history" of any domestic problem in war-time America. Every day such letters pile up, by the score, on my desk. And in nine times out of ten, the complaint is the same, from both wife and husband, be they peasant or plutocrat, sap or sophisticate. Always the angry letters ask, What, actually, are "women's rights" in this topsy-turvy war world?

AS FAR AS I CAN SEE, THEY ARE WHAT THEY HAVE ALWAYS BEEN AND ALWAYS SHOULD BE . . . EQUIVALENT TO THE OBLIGATIONS SHE HAS UNDERTAKEN AND THE SERVICE SHE RENDERS.

Chances are I'll make myself mighty unpopular by the following statement. If so, bring on your brickbats, sisters. But, having served both as housewife and working woman, I cannot see why a woman's salary or service should be any more personal or sacred than a man's. Nor can I see why the family obligations should be any more his than hers . . . provided she wants to jump her normal job and pursue a career or a pay check.

EQUALITY IS A LOVELY TERM, LADY, BUT IT CARRIES A BIG PRICE, LIKE EVERY OTHER PRIVILEGE. IT MEANS THAT YOU MUST ASSUME AS HEAVY A BURDEN AS THE OTHER FELLOW, IF YOU CLAIM THE SAME PREROGATIVE. IT MEANS YOU CAN'T HAVE YOUR CAKE AND EAT IT BOTH, AND THEN GO TO BED WITH A BAD CASE OF SELF-PITY.

In other words, equality means equality. Share and share alike. And no sniveling. Or go back to your kitchen, sister, and shut your lovely mouth—and cook.

Battle In Egypt May Determine Control of Mediterranean Area

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—With Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's break through Marshal Rommel's left wing, the battle of Egypt is swelling rapidly toward the crisis of what may be the decisive engagement in the struggle for control of the Mediterranean area.

This is no time for prophecy but the nature of Montgomery's assault and the strength apparently massed behind it warrant the belief that he is aiming at destruction of the Axis in Northern Africa.

Keep your eye on this battle. It represents one of the major conflicts of the war.

The British commander is going about his task the direct and the hard way. If Montgomery's drive goes well—and it appears to be proceeding satisfactorily thus far—we may expect sensational developments.

One of these is likely to be a desperate effort by Hitler to save his servant by rushing air reinforcements to him.

And it may be assumed that the Allied high command has not just thrown Montgomery into this whirlpool to sink or swim without further aid.

What has happened is this:

Montgomery suddenly flung an infantry attack—preceded by heavy bombardment from artillery and the air and followed by tanks—against one of the strongest points in Rommel's left flank.

The ferocity of the British attack resulted in a break-through on a front of some 4,000 yards.

Rommel rushed a fleet of tanks into action in an effort to stem the advance, but the Allied air force smashed the concentration and sent those tanks which were not destroyed rushing for safety.

Should things go well with the Allied attack, a break-through may develop into flank movements which will result in the encirclement and annihilation of large forces of the enemy unless Rommel can avoid such traps.

Here we shouldn't forget that the Nazi marshal is one of the shrewdest captains in the war. You can't say that he is beaten until you have his scalp actually at your belt.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

(Second of two articles on the 'teen-age draft.)

WASHINGTON — The 18-19 draft (capital observers are unanimous in the opinion that it will be passed in one form or another) is probably going to have more effect on U. S. manpower and domestic life than any legislation since the first Selective Service law became operative.

Out of the more than 2,000,000 'teen-age youths who will become subject to military training under the law, there are, it is estimated, a half million now in war industries. Because these lads are young and lack years of experience and training, it will be difficult to exempt them under the "necessary man" clause.

THE effect it will have on universities and colleges is something that educators here shudder to think about and refuse to be quoted on. There is a rumor that several of the nation's universities are planning to "fold up" before the spring semester opens. That may not be necessary. The delay in getting the 18-19 draft bill to the president's desk may result in the bulk of the 'teen-agers not being called before next summer.

But even that would leave institutions of higher learning stripped of male students for the 1943-44 term. The alternative to closing would be converting to war or navy department training centers.

* * *

THE 'teen-age draft might be the signal for shutting off all voluntary enlistments.

If it gets into operation in time it may result in the deferment for a year at least of married men with one or more children.

You can't find any official who will vouch for this last, but if the manpower figures are anywhere near correct, we could raise an army of 9,000,000 men (including the 18-19 year olds) without further tapping married men with dependents.

Why then have there been so many conflicting statements about the need soon for drawing men from the married ranks?

That answer isn't really so difficult. Officials who have had anything to do with it have been bending over backwards to keep from announcing any policy on draft deferments in order to save the entire draft set-up from criticism.

Calls on the draft boards are made on a basis of population. Without going into every draft district and analyzing it thoroughly (a task equal to a national census), the population basis is the only one that can be used. But what happens? One district has several hotels for young men; another is made up entirely of young married couples, with one or two children, who are buying lower bracket homes; a third (there are many of them in the south) has a preponderance of illiterates.

NEW YORK—Translations from hieroglyphics on the backs of old envelopes:

Margie Hart, the strip queen, is trying to stir up a feud with New York University, claiming she was given the brush-off when she attempted to deliver a lecture at the school. Subject: Agriculture . . . Martha Scott, while in town to appear in the play, "The Willow and I," won't have to worry about the upkeep of her west coast home. She entrusted it to four Lockheed employes . . . Predominating colors at this fall's football games seem to be tan and red—tan for the military style topcoats everyone seems to be wearing . . . A New York newspaper's etiquette editor thinks it's bad manners for soldiers and their girls to hold hands while walking. Now ain't that awful?

There have been 20 marriages between members of the cast since ice skating shows were launched at the Center theater in Rockefeller Center two years ago . . . The most authentic character bit on Broadway is being turned in by half-pint Billy Miller, dance director in the comedy on burlesque, "Strip for Action." For 27 years Billy has been a dance director connected with burlesque, now is speaking lines for the first time. . . .

AVIATORS who have seen service abroad tip their caps to the Poles as being the toughest of the lot. Polish fliers have lost all contact with home and family and fly so recklessly that German pilots fear collisions more than guns. . . . Harry James, filling an engagement made when his band was less famous and less costly to operate, took a $30,000 loss rather than break his contract—and his word. . . . New York's voluntary meatless Tuesdays seem to be taking hold pretty well, with few reports of chiseling. Gallagher's, famous steak house, capitalized on the situation by advertising it would be closed on Tuesdays . . . Fish and poultry dishes naturally are getting the play in restaurants and the fish houses instead of having one big day a week (Friday) are having two.

FIFTH AVENUE is possibly the gloomiest street in town after dark because it contains few of the types of businesses which remain open after 6 o'clock. People emerging from the subways grope blindly until their eyes become accustomed to the dark . . . Broadway seems to go through alternate periods of light and gloom, the nickel catching establishments gradually stepping up their lighting until they have to be stepped on.

Headaches Shared.

We can sympathize with the treasury in its hard task of preparing all the tax forms required under the new law, explaining how the system works "in words of simple syllables" and so on. Yet our sympathy must be divided. We must be very selfish and pour some of the soothing oil upon ourselves, millions of us.

The treasury boys get paid for their headachy labor. And, bless our souls, we do the paying. Nor will anybody pay us for labor in filling out—cautiously to the last of Item 32 and Subitem (h)—all those forms that doubtless will be lengthened ad infinitum this time.

Truth is, all of us ought to go at it with patriotic zest and deem it a high privilege to get off with no more. Still we would square right up to that requirement all the more willingly if the treasury in its vast industry would hereafter frame up more just and equitable taxation programs.—Kansas City Star.

Why Need of Water Is Imperative.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SCIENCE gathers its materials in unexpected places. The story of the Mutiny on the Bounty is an adventure yarn of the sea, but it is also one of the great contributions to human heredity. When we study heredity in mice we know about heredity in mice, not necessarily in human beings. It is a convenient way to study the subject because we can coop the mice up in cages and keep them from getting away and having love affairs in the open. The mutineers of the Bounty landed on a desert island and intermarried with the natives; they were all killed but one and when discovered, he was the ancestor of everybody on the island; they had been in a cage.

So the story of the three U. S. sailors in a rubber raft floating on the Pacific for 34 days is an adventure story of the first class, but will probably stick in the physiologies long after it has been dropped from the story books, because it is a study in metabolism.

Interesting to Physiologists.

Three men were forced down in a Navy plane and found themselves in a rubber raft with nothing to eat, no water, no nothing. Oh! yes, they had a knife. One of them was able to spear a fish from day to day, and these were eaten raw.

After several days of blistering heat and clear weather, it rained. After that there were squalls every day. So they had water. And water was what saved them.

That is the part of the story that gets in the physiologies. What they had to eat for 34 days was probably as much as a normal adult American eats in one day of light meals. And it had no variety. They had not vitamin tablets. But they had water. And men can live for 34 days if they have water.

It is one of the very few recorded experiments to determine this point. The average reader of scientific literature has read a number of loose statements and thinks that physiology has plenty of data on the subject . . . that fellow that was out in the desert that time. Well, what fellow who was out in what desert, what time?

I was talking to a professional physiologist about this and he began to make vague statements so we started to look it up and found almost nothing. The figure of the man in the desert gets vaguer and vaguer as you track him down. No professional faster, not even Mohandas Gandhi, has been able to stand the torture of a fast without water.

The fluid in the body is distributed in the blood (5 per cent), the fluid loose between tissues (15 per cent) and the fluid inside cells (50 per cent). So 70 per cent of your body—105 pounds of a 150-pound man—is water. The body loses water at the rate of 4½ pints a day, even in winter. The water in the body performs all sorts of functions—distributes foods in solutions, salts, carries waste products from the kidneys and lungs, regulates heat.

We need it badly. If you don't believe it, get on a rubber raft in the middle of the Pacific without it.

DELIVERS 240 TONS OF MAIL

KENTON —(INS)— Stephen H. Smith, who retired recently after serving in the postal service at Kenton for 34 years, has "carried a lot of mail."

Smith said that only on two days of the 20 years he was on a rural route did he fail to lick any stamps for RFD patrons. He estimates that he has carried 240 tons (2,160,000 pieces) of mail in his lifetime; that he drove 240,000 miles (stopping 720,000 times) in carrying parcels on the rural route and that he walked an additional 7,200 miles while delivering mail on a Kenton route for 14 years.

ALLIES POUND FLEEING AXIS ARMY IN EGYPT

Troops, Planes Continue To Advance 70 Miles West of El Alamein.

and acknowledged loss of 14 Allied planes, but the Allied losses were relatively small in proportion to the number of planes engaged on both sides.

Last night's British communique declared boldly that the enemy was "in full retreat."

In terse phrases the announcement painted the picture of a sweeping Allied victory, disclosed that Rommel's second in command—General von Stumme—had been killed in action and declared that the enemy was retreating in complete confusion.

Assessing Axis losses for the first time since the beginning of the Allied offensive, the bulletin reported that 260 enemy tanks had been destroyed, 600 aircraft knocked out of action, 270 guns wrecked or captured, 50,000 tons of shipping sunk and as much more damaged.

In addition, the communique said, the Allies have captured a total of 9,000 Axis prisoners, including General Ritter von Thoma, commander of the German African corps, and a number of other senior German and Italian officers.

"It is know the enemy's losses in killed and wounded have been exceptionally high," the communique added.

While the announcement did not reveal the full extent of the Allied advance, unofficial advices from the front indicated that British imperial forces were advancing rapidly on El Daba, site of an important enemy air base 35 miles west of El Alamein, springboard of the current offensive.

Observers said that Rommel's chances of making a stand depended largely on the amount of reserves he might have massed at such strategic points at Matruh, Halfaya Pass and Salum—all of which boast well fortified positions.

The defeat which the British suffered last summer, however, when they were driven back deep into Egypt, showed the difficulties of organizing an effective defense and halting a retreat under overwhelming pressure.

(Dispatches from Turkey quoted advices from Greece as saying that the Germans were rushing three or four divisions from the Russian front to Africa in an attempt to reinforce Rommel. Four trainloads of Nazi soldiers were said to have passed through Athens en route to embarkation points.

(The German radio said last night that the British had scored "local successes" but claimed Rommel had the situation in hand and declared the British had lost between 450 and 500 tanks in the action thus far.)

An important factor in favor of the Allies now is the unquestioned superiority of their air forces.

British and American planes were reported virtually unopposed as they bombed and machine-gunned from low levels, and returning fliers told of enemy troops "scattering like cockroaches" under the attacks.

Scenes of utter destruction marked the path of the Axis retreat, the airmen said.

"I never saw such destruction," declared Brig. Gen. A. C. Strickland, chief of the bomber command of the Middle East unit of the U. S. Army Air Forces, following his return from a personally-conducted bombing foray over the enemy rear lines.

"We swept over the road and saw it packed with transport," he related. "But every vehicle was stopped and everywhere there were tiny trails of dust where the crews were running into the desert. Every bomber in our formation turned and sailed down the road spilling bombs on vehicles and men."

Rome Admits Severe Losses In Battle

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts)—Axis forces, having suffered "severe losses" have withdrawn to new lines in Egypt after violent dawn-to-dusk tank battles [illegible] raging over "the region between El Alamein and Fuka [illegible] 70 miles west of the old El Alamein line."

(Fuka, on the coastal [illegible] is more than one-third [illegible] distance from El Alamein westward to the Egypt-Libya border.)

"Yesterday from the early hours of the morning until late at night, in the region between El Alamein and Fuka, fierce and bloody fighting took place between our tanks and infantry units and similar enemy forces," the war bulletin said.

"After the exceptionally bitter resistance, toward evening, men of the Italian and German armies withdrew to new lines to the west.

"Enemy losses have been heavy in men and material.

"Our losses have been severe."

7,000 Americans Arrive In Egypt

CAIRO —(U.P.)— Seven thousand American reinforcements for the Allied North African offensive were encamped today, losing their sea legs after a tiring, uneventful voyage from a United States east coast port on a former transatlantic liner.

The contingent, including several Negro units and the first American army nurses to arrive in the Middle East, disembarked Sunday night at a Red sea port.

They were headed by Lieut. Col. John E. Baird of Philadelphia, who will assume a post in the command of Maj.-Gen. Russell L. Maxwell, commander of American forces in the Middle East.

Ten hours after they had disembarked in a black-out all of the soldiers had reached transit camps where they will be acclimated for the desert campaign.

As Women Plan Bond Drive

Mansfield women's clubs took over the November war bonds sales last night by launching a competitive campaign for the sale of $175,000 in bonds that will be used to purchase a medium bomber to help defeat the Axis. Approximately 150 club women attended the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to hear plans for the contest.

In the above picture five members of the women's committee are shown studying the contest rules. They are, seated, left to right, Mrs. John Pierce, Mrs. Louis J. Ott, head of the woman's division; standing, left to right, Mrs. Ephraim Brown, Mrs. Mildred Perry and Mrs. Robert R. Black. Shown below is a group of defense chairmen attending the meeting.

land county women's division from the Cleveland office of the Treasury department after the latter had communicated with offices in Washington, D. C., regarding the matter.

The new bomber will likely be named "City of Mansfield, Ohio," Mrs. Ott said.

Clubs signing the register last night were given the signal to start their campaign today. Prizes in war savings bonds and stamps will be awarded to the three organizations selling the greatest dollar volume per member. The first prize will be a $50 war bond, the second, a $25 bond, and the third, $10 in war savings stamps.

Mrs. Ott's division committee includes the following members, Mrs. Millard Pryor, Mrs. A. J. Goldsmith, Mrs. Robert R. Black, Mrs. A. W. Meihack, Mrs. Carl Russell, Mrs. Ephriam Brown, Mrs. Carlton Fernyak, Mrs. Tom Ford, Mrs. John Pierce and the Misses Katharine Hartman and Justine Sterkel.

Nazis Rush Troops To Bolster Rommel

ISTANBUL—(U.P.)—The German high command is rushing four divisions of Nazi troops from the Russian front in the hope of getting them into North Africa in time to aid Axis forces retreating in Egypt under relentless blows by the British eighth army, reports reaching Turkey from Greece said today.

Four trainloads of German troops were said to have passed through Athens Monday, apparently en route to Crete and thence to North Africa.

Registration hours at the above schools probably will be 4 to 8 p. m. on Thursday and 4:30 to 8:30 p. m. on Friday, Superintendent Boyd Robinson said, although no definite plans are available until the superintendents of the county confer tonight.

At East Mansfield, Lincoln Heights and Woodville schools the registration hours probably will be from 4:30 to 8:30 p. m. on each of the three days.

Applicants for ration books "A" and "D" will be registered. Mansfield public school teachers are receiving instruction on registration procedure and simular courses are being arranged for village and rural teachers.

BOYS BLAMED IN RUBBER BLAZE

Linked To Fire That Destroys $10,000 Scrap Pile.

AKRON—(INS)—Fire Chief Frank Vernotzy today blamed two boys for starting a fire that swept a rubber scrap pile of the B. F. Goodrich company, and caused damage estimated at $10,000.

One of the largest scrap piles in the city, the burned rubber had been collected in the last scrap drive here and was the property of the government. Goodrich policemen guarding the pile said they chased two boys away from it a short time before the fire was discovered.

Firemen from eight Akron companies and units of the Goodrich fire fighting force battled the flames several hours.

event of its return to the Solomons battle area.

The enemy warships, which disappeared after suffering heavy damage Oct. 26 in a major air-naval engagement east of the Stewart islands and about 260 miles northeast of Guadalcanal, were expected to reappear in "formidable" numbers, Secretary of Navy Knox has said.

MacArthur's headquarters reported today (Australian time) that the Nipponese New Guinea invasion which in late September had penetrated as far as 32 miles from the Allies' Port Moresby base, now had been pushed back several miles beyond Kokoda, midway point across the island's 120-mile waist.

Reports Japs Ready Action In China

CHUNGKING, China.—(AP)—A Chinese army spokesman said today the Japanese appeared to be making large-scale military preparations in China, massing troops in five provinces, four of them running down inland China from the Mongolian border and one of them on the coast north of Shanghai.

He said Chinese intelligence reports said the Japanese were massing troops in the province of Hupeh, Honan, Shansi, Suiyuan and Shantung.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 troops were concentrated in Hankow, in Hupeh province, great Japanese inland base on the Yangtze river, he said, while 10,000 to 20,000 were in the Tai mountains of Shantung, coastal province.

MacArthur Says Japs Routed in New Guinea

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—(U.P.)—Allied ground troops, advancing through the foothills of New Guinea's Owen Stanley mountains, have routed the Japanese from their prepared positions near the village of Oivi, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

It was the first actual contact between the fast-moving Australian jungle fighters and the Japanese since the enemy was defeated in a hand-to-hand encounter at Alola, Oct. 28.

MacArthur's troops, attacking positions three miles west of Oivi which still has not been occupied, wiped out four machine gun posts and continued their advance. The next logical point for a Japanese stand was believed to be in the Wairopi area, in the steep defiles along the Kumusi river.

He added that the operations of the civilian defense office have been developed to the point where more and more duties are being handled by volunteers so that he doesn't anticipate the necessity of relinquishing the co-ordinator's post.

Kalbfleisch said he had called a meeting of the civilian defense for Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Municipal building to map future activities. House to house distribution of placards carrying instructions for local "alerts" and black-outs will be made next week, he said.

GEORGE M. COHAN SUCCUMBS AT 64

Leading Figure of American Theater Wrote Famed 'Over There.'

brightest marquee lights. He gave musical comedy a star-spangled zest it has lacked since he left it. He scored a triumph of legitimate acting in a Pulitzer prize play written by the darling of the intelligentsia—Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness." In "I'd Rather Be Right" he kidded President Roosevelt and won guffaws from the White House.

He scored a hit on the radio and acted in the movies, but he and Hollywood were divorced by mutual consent on grounds of incompatibility. He was more at home on Broadway.

He was born July 4, 1878, in Providence, R. I. Before he joined his sister Josie in "The Four Cohans" at the age of 10 he sawed a fiddle in orchestra pits. For all the melodies he composed in later years his formal musical knowledge never extended beyond a firm grasp on four chords in F-sharp. But he knew what people would whistle.

He had many fights. Critics who sneered at his early flag-waving came to cheer it and be cheered by it.

Its culmination was "Over There," which, like many another Cohan song, was "just dashed off" on the inspiration of a moment. A gold medal, authorized by a special act of congress, was presented to him by President Roosevelt in 1940 in recognition of what that song had done to lift a nation's morale.

Hollywood, with which he had fought the only draw of his career, eventually honored him with a film biography in technicolor, something even Emile Zola didn't rate. James Cagney played the lead in "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Cohan's first wife was Ethel Levey, star of vaudeville and musical comedy in New York and London. After dissolution of the marriage, by which he had a daughter, Georgiana, he married Agnes Nolan, daughter of a Boston mailman, in June, 1907. They had three children, Helen, Mary, and George M., jr.

A list of his successes as actor, song writer, producer, manager, playwright would be interminable. Two plays, "The Tavern" and "Seven Keys to Baldpate," at both of which the critics groaned, still are played in stock and amateur productions. There are scores of other comedies and musicals which knew his sure touch.

His partnership with Sam Harris resulted in "Little Johnny Jones," "Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford," "It Pays to Advertise" and many other still-remembered hits which Cohan wrote or re-wrote.

HERE'S LIST OF ELIGIBLES FOR 'C' CARDS

Gas Rationing Official Gets Regulations; Stickers To Be Issued.

Motorists who qualify for a "C" ration card entitling them to gasoline for more than 470 miles of occupational driving per month will receive a new "C" ration sticker which tells the public just why the owner received it, W. J. Spreng, Richland county gasoline rationing chairman, said today.

Purposes for which "C" rations are permitted will be listed on the sticker and the local ration board will place a check mark beside the purpose for which the sticker was granted. The motorist then must display the sticker.

The Office of Price Administration today had announced a list of 20 preferred mileage uses which entitle the motorist to a "C" ration card.

Here are the mileage purposes for which "C" cards will be granted:

1. By officials, representatives or employes of a federal, state, local, or foreign government on official business, by officials, representatives or employes of the American Red Cross on official business. Daily or periodic travel between home and work is not to be considered official business under the plan, but elected members of federal or state legislative bodies may get preferred mileage to drive from their home towns to the place of legislative sessions, and for travel elsewhere in pursuit of legislative business.

Members of local war price and rationing boards may be given preferred mileage to travel between the homes and the place where the board conducts its business. Compensated travel by persons engaged in administration of the Selective Service System whose services are not otherwise compensated also is preferred mileage.

2. By a school teacher or school official for the performance of school duties requiring regular travel from one recognized educational institution to another.

3 By a person for regularly transporting four or more pupils, students, teachers or school employes to or from regular places of study, provided that alternative means of transportation are not adequate.

4 For the transportation of mail on behalf of the United States government.

5 For delivery, other than delivery to the reader, of newspapers (not including magazines).

6 For transportation of non-portable equipment used in making newsreels for dissemination of information to the public, by a person regularly engaged in such activity.

7 By a physician surgeon, dentist, osteopath, chiropractor, or midwife, for making necessary professional calls outside his office if he regularly makes such calls or for travel between offices maintained by him, but only if the applicant is licensed as such by the appropriate government authority.

8. By a farm veterinary for rendering professional services at agricultural establishments, but only if the applicant is licensed by the appropriate governmental authority and regularly renders such professional services.

9 By a medical interne, student of an accredited medical school or public health nurse (but not including a private nurse) employed by or serving under the direction of a clinic or hospital, governmental agency, industrial concern, or similar organization, for rendering necessary medical, nursing, or inspection calls.

10 By an embalmer for rendering necessary services in connection with the preparation for interment of deceased persons, but only if the applicant is licensed as such by the appropriate governmental authority.

11 By a practicing minister of any religious faith who regularly serves a congregation, to enable him to meet the religious needs of the locality which he regularly serves, but not to go from home to place of worship, or by a practicing minister who regularly serves more than one congregation, to enable him to travel to the churches which he serves.

12 By a duly authorized religious practitioner, other than a minister, in serving members of an organized religious faith in the locality which he regularly serves. This does not include travel from home to place of worship.

13 By a farmer for transporting products and supplies between a farm and public market, wholesale or retail establishment, place of shipment or another farm.

14. For transporting farm workers, commercial fishermen, seamen or marine workers between their homes and work.

15. By workers, including executives, technicians and office workers, for necessary travel to, from within or between military and hospital establishments, public utilities and industrial, extractive or agricultural establishments essential to the war effort, for purposes necessary to their functioning or operation. This does not include travel for sales, promotional and certain other purposes.

16 For transportation of authorized agents of government, management or labor, to, from, within or between the establishments specified in the preceding paragraph in order to maintain peaceful industrial relations.

17. By engineers, architects, technicians, construction workers, or maintenance men in performing services or transporting materials essential to making highway, structural or mechanical constructions, installations or repairs.

To qualify for preferred mileage under this paragraph, the applicant must establish that he is not seeking transportation for purposes of selling, merchandising or promoting, also that the work cannot be done by someone regularly available on the premises.

18 By members of the armed forces of the United States or state military forces on official business, where no military vehicle is available or for necessary transportation between home or lodging and post of duty (but not for transfer from post to post).

19. In a motorcycle, for delivery or messenger service, or in a passenger automobile, for the delivery of telegrams by a person regularly engaged in that business.

20 By a person regularly engaged in the business of dealing in scrap material for locating and accumulating scrap metals or other scrap essential to the war effort. To qualify the applicant must present a certification from a local or regional War Production Board salvage representative that such travel is essential to the war effort.

PIER BECOMES HUGE 'SHIP' FOR TRAINING

Once Famous Chicago 'Fun' Center Now Headquarters For Many Sailors.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Life moves swiftly on the U. S. Navy's greatest training "ship," the Navy Pier, in Chicago commanded by Capt. E. A. Wolleson, (Pet.)

The ship, five-eighths of a mile long, is bounded on three sides by water and war pursuits have taken over the open-air decks where Chicago pleasure seekers formerly took their sun baths and lolled about in deck chairs.

The huge pier shed houses large numbers of sailors and marines, students of the aviation mechanics and diesel engine schools stationed there.

Take for example the life of Apprentice Seaman Jack Bobstay, Moline, Ill., whose day begins at 5:30 a. m. He is awakened by the raucous sound of the bugle which can be heard in the most remote recesses of pier quarters. The dressing contest for Bobstay and his fellow sailors, young men from every corner of the nation, is on in a flash. He dons a suit of blue dungarees and a white, pudding cap.

The "fall in" call is sounded and Bobstay jumps into line. Up and down the deck he goes, taking his morning course of calisthenics to loosen up his muscles and keep himself fit. That's what gives him that roaring appetite for food. Breakfast is served at 6:15 a. m. They eat good food in the navy and plenty of it, too.

Next on the program comes first call to colors at 7:55 a. m., roll call at 8, sick call at 8:05. Work starts at 8:30. Then follows a lecture on the fundamentals of ordnance, illustrated by charts and pictures, the care and manipulation of small arms.

Bobstay knows his mathematics, is keen on drafting, and is doing some clever designing work.

Dinner is scheduled for noon. Enlisted men eat cafeteria style in relays, so great is the strain on the mess. Food again is ample. Bobstay may buy ice cream to top off his lunch if he chooses. Next comes exercise, lots of it. Sailors go bare to the waist.

Letter writing is indulged in regularly by Bobstay and his friends. They sit at long tables provided in their dormitories. Mother gets the news. The pier, she is told, "is just like a great big battleship except that it doesn't rock in a storm. One-thirty arrives, letter writing is ended—smoking recess is over—Bobstay goes back to work. He'll soon be a full-fledged sailor.

BACK FROM ENGLAND

FREMONT—(INS)—Corp. Edgar Elmore, said to be the first Ohio soldier to arrive in England during the second World War, is back in this country for special training, he informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reynolds, of Fremont. Elmore enlisted in the Marines in 1940 and a year later went to London to be attached to the U. S. embassy.

USE BUGGIES

EUGENE, Ore. —(U.P.)— University of Oregon students, faced with President Donald M. Erb's decree against automobiles on the campus, have gone back to the horse and buggy.

Farmers, it is reported, are swamped with requests from borrowers, who gaily drive about town escorting dates in the old-fashioned way.

PAY IN ADVANCE FOR PHYSICIANS

California Workers Meet Future Bills With Monthly Rent.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO — Several thousand families in California war-plant industrial communities now pay their doctor bills in advance, and with their rent. And within a few weeks 35,000 California farm families will be adopting a similar prepayment plan which last year reduced farm medical costs in three experimental counties to between $10 and $20 a year per person.

The urban coordination of rental and medical charges has been inaugurated in Sausalito, San Diego and other cities which have large housing projects for war-workers. The Housing Authority turns the money for medical service over to the California Physicians Service, which assigns doctors and nurses and maintains clinics.

These innovations are only two of many which war conditions are effecting in medical and hospital practice in Pacific coast states now coping with a double threat to public health—sudden boom-town gains in population and the loss of a high percentage of young physicians and surgeons to the armed services.

Some of the big-scale employers—notably Henry J. Kaiser—have elaborated and extended the system of deducting charges for medical check-ups from the wages of their workers.

While these steps are being taken to reduce disease hazards in the cities and towns, a new program to extend adequate medical service to the low-income group of California farmers will become effective shortly. Under its provisions, as announced by the Farm Security administration and the California Physicians Service, any farm family with a net yearly income of $2,000 or less may join the co-operative group. About 35,000 families, or 130,000 persons, are being offered membership.

'I'm at the End of the Road'

His eyes moist with tears, Senator George Norris of Nebraska is seen in Washington after learning of his defeat by Republican Nominee Kenneth Wherry. The 81-year-old senator, who has given 40 years of service, told newsmen "that it's all over now and I'm at the end of the road — everyone knows I'll never get back in." Norris had received the endorsement of President Roosevelt.

SOLD FOR $6

LILLOOET, B. C. —(INS)— The lowest low in used car prices quoted hereabouts was the $6 sale of an auto . . . with a complete set of good tires.

Otto Hendrickson bought the car from a miner whom he met on the road. The miner, having trouble with his motor and in a hurry to get to a recruiting station said he was "fed up with the crate." He asked Hendrickson to help him push the car into the river. Hendrickson had six dollars in his pocket. Now he has five good tires . . . and the crate.

1 cup dates

Cream shortening, add honey and sugar, then well-beaten eggs, milk and dry ingredients, fruit and nuts. Drop from teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet, bake at 400 degrees F. for 10 to 12 minutes. Let stand for 5 minutes, then take from sheet, cool and pack or store.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

The shifty-eyed man from the Lansfield kitchens looked questioningly from my father to the hotel manager. Watching closely I could detect no signal given him by Milner, and the man said a bit sullenly: "How about this? You're my boss, you know."

"You haven't a very good way of showing that you realize that," Milner rebuked him, evidently still smarting from the man's disrespectful epithet. "However, it is all right to tell Mr. Spencer anything you know about this."

The man hesitated, then looked slyly at Milner.

"You're not going to like this very well," he said.

"That is beside the question," the hotel manager told him. "Get on with your story."

"Well," the man began with apparent reluctance, "you remember how you bawled me out yesterday for not paying better attention to my orders."

Gives an Excuse.

"I remember perfectly," Milner said coldly. "You richly deserved the rebuke."

"Oh, I did, did I?" the man said truculently. "You didn't know, nor care, that I hadn't had any sleep in thirty-six hours, account of a sick little kid at home."

"I'm sorry to hear that," the manager said coolly, "but we cannot take your family misfortunes as an excuse for neglecting your work. If you need sleep, you must get a substitute. But how does it concern your explanation of the drugged coffee?"

"I'm coming to that," the man said. "I was so sore at you that I wanted to let you know how it was to be so sleepy you couldn't keep your eyes open. So when you telephoned for coffee, right after this couple in this room telephoned, I thought here's me chance. I happened to have some stuff in me pocket that the doc gave the wife when she had neuralgia, and I dropped it into your coffee pot. But the two trays went up on the same trip and looked almost exactly alike, so I suppose the waiter mixed them up."

Spencer's Decision.

He told his story so convincingly that if Adams hadn't told us of seeing Milner switching the coffee pots, I should have been inclined to believe him.

But I knew, as did Dicky, Dr. Twitchell and my father that Milner was merely staging a plausible explanation of the drugged coffee.

"As far as I'm concerned," my father said, after a pause, "I'm satisfied this man is telling the truth. You may send the rest back, Milner. As for the culprit, I shall not give him any punishment. That is your affair, Milner, and of course yours, Philip."

"I am going to make it my affair," Philip Veritzen said. "Milner, will you send all these men away, except the man who has just confessed he meant to drug you. Leave him here. Then come back yourself and we will go into this."

Warned by Milner.

This time I distinctly saw a warning flash from the manager's eyes to those of the man who had told the story. Then he went about the task of getting his men out of the room. As soon as he was out of earshot, my father spoke to Veritzen.

"I have a reason for asking this, Philip. Wait for action until you are sure your premises are sound."

"As far as actions go," Veritzen said, "I'm willing to wait, but I'm going to have a few words to say in the next minute or two."

Then the manager of the Lansfield came back into the room, his suave, debonair manner conspicuously absent, and looked at his employer.

"What do you want me to do with this man, sir?" he asked deferentially.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Nov. 6.

The auguries point to an important coming to life of an old congested or crystallized state of affairs, with a decisive march onward in the direction of stabilizing and giving security to the fortunes and real possessions. It is a time to carefully formulate and systemize plans and objectives toward this end, as there may be some vague or confusing states of mind to cope with, also dangers from fraud, imposition or emotionalism. With proper forethought and discretion there should be enduring gratification in home and intimate affairs.

Those whose birthday it is should prepare for a year of solid and enduring good fortune, following upon a period of long-thwarted ambitions for other static or crystallized conditions. This should be done by a careful and systematic formulation of plans, with attention to details and future prospects. Logic and reason should hold sway against emotional, impulsive and ill-considered or vague moves. This might incur loss, theft, imposition or some strange sort of adventure, especially while traveling. Domestic, social and affectional affairs flourish.

A child born on this day should have sound principles and good judgment and be endowed with deep intellect, although at times disposed to act on impulse or emotionalism, to its detriment.

JUDGE HELPS SCRAP DRIVE

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — Municipal Judge J. J. Quillin considered the case of Geralyl Bates, who pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to leave his name and address at the scene of an accident. He ordered a fine. Bates countered with a proposal that his car be turned in for the scrap drive. The judge accepted, canceling the fine.

Mrs. Baird Tells History of Music

Hostesses to Beta chapter of Mansfield Sorosis for its meeting Wednesday evening was Mrs. Walter Mickey, Heineman boulevard. After a brief business session the members were entertained with a well-prepared paper by Mrs. Stuart Baird on "The History of American Music."

Mrs. Baird traced music from 1620 to the presen time, including secular, national, folk, jazz and classical writers in her descriptions. She illustrated each type of music by playing on the piano a popular number from each section.

Mrs. A. H. Frankhauser was welcomed by the group as a new member. On Nov. 18, Miss Dorothy Moser will entertain at her home on Greenwood avenue.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WEAKNESS EXPOSED

One objection raised by those who do not like the standard game-forcing two bid is that, when the partner's hand is weak, he hates to see the strong hand put up on the table, where the defenders can see its strong and weak points. That is not always a disadvantage. Sometimes it is more harmful to put the weaker hand on the table, if the contract is one or more in No Trumps, as the weakness of some bid suit may then be exposed to public gaze.

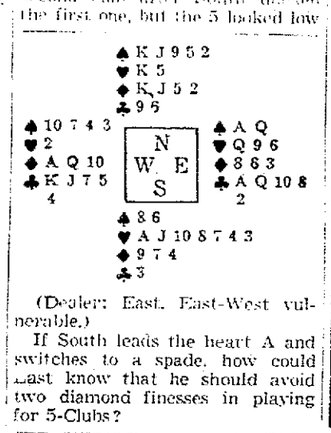
Thus, by different methods, two East-West pairs got into 2-No Trumps on this deal of a duplicate. At Table 2, where East was the declarer, the contract was made with an extra trick because North never scored his spade tops, whereas at Table 1, with the weakness of the spade suit in sight, the contract was set.

When West was the declarer, North opened his diamond 3, by chance the same suit as at the other table. North avoided the unbid hearts, as he reckoned West would expect that lead and be prepared for it. South used his 9 to force the Q and, when the clubs were led to his A he cashed the diamond K. A and 8. The weakness of the dummy's spade suit was so transparent, he led back the 6 of it, and the spade tops set the contract.

Where East played the hand, South led the diamond 8, the Q winning. When the clubs then came to his A, he had no way of knowing East's spade suit was so weak. North tried to ask for a spade by discarding the 5 on the second club after South dropped the first one, but the 5 looked low



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If South leads the heart A and switches to a spade, how could East know that he should avoid two diamond finesses in playing for 5-Clubs?

PILLSBURY'S MEAT CONES

. . . a zesty flavor, set off by delicate, flakiest biscuit . . . from that dependable all-purpose flour, Pillsbury's Best!

MAKE YOUR MEAT GO FARTHER WITH PILLSBURY'S MEAT CONES

. . . a hearty meat dish with a different, wide-awake flavor . . . serves 6 to 8 at about 11 cents per person.

TEMPERATURE: 400° F. TIME: about 25 minutes

- 2 cups sifted Pillsbury's Best Enriched Flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder (or 2 teaspoons double-acting)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup shortening
- ¾ cup milk (about)

(Enrichment of Pillsbury's Best adds two essential B-vitamins and iron to your family's daily diet—with no change whatever in its creamy-white color, its mellow wheaty flavor . . . or the faithful way it works for all your baking.)

1. Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder and salt; sift together. 2. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. 3. Add milk all at once; mix with a fork or spatula until all flour is dampened. 4. Turn out on floured board; knead lightly a few seconds to smooth dough. 5. Roll out in a rectangle 16 x 8 inches. Cut into eight 4-inch squares.

Meat Filling

- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon fat
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 2 cups (1 lb.) ground raw beef, pork, or veal
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper

1. Pan-fry onions and green pepper in fat until tender. 2. Combine egg, meat, and seasonings. Add onions and green pepper. 3. Divide mixture into 8 equal parts. Form into small rolls about five inches long. Place forty-corner on dough square; bring the uncovered opposite corners together, moisten edges and seal. 4. Place on greased baking sheets. Bake in hot oven until meat is done.

Next a tangy tomato sauce—the crowning flavor touch! But first, notice the exquisite tenderness and flakiness of your biscuit. Everything you bake with Pillsbury's Best turns out like that! Luscious cakes . . . cookies . . . pies . . . golden-brown, inviting home-made breads! For Pillsbury's Best is a truly, all-purpose flour. Truly dependable, too, for it's BAKE-PROVED by actual baking tests 4 to 6 times daily during milling. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

Tomato Sauce

- 2 cups canned tomatoes
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1½ teaspoon chili powder
- Dash of cloves
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup catsup

1. Combine ingredients in order given. Allow to simmer over direct heat until thickened (about 10 minutes). Here's a real surprise dish for their supper tonight—and a mighty tasty way of getting the two added B-vitamins and iron of that fine, dependable, enriched flour, Pillsbury's Best! Ask for Pillsbury's Best—for all your baking.

CHAPTER VIII

Livia was aware of a new hospitality in the eyes of the extras on the set. A line to speak would mean $25 for the day's work. But more than that, the line might open the door—to anything.

"What's she got that we haven't?" one sharp-voiced extra demanded. Livia flushed and looked swiftly to where Johnny Einfeld stood. But he had not heard. He was planning the set-up for the next sequence.

"What do I have to say?" Livia timidly asked the assistant director.

"I don't know," he said and walked away.

No one seemed to care that she, Livia Clarkson, was actually going to speak a line in a picture. Ah, there was the script girl. She would ask her.

Trixey, a gnome-like female, who had been in pictures since the silent days, was going over the script with the star of the picture—Alice Delaware.

"Be with you in a minute," Trixey smiled at Livia.

"No hurry," said Livia hastily. She moved a few feet away, and was soon joined by the script girl, who whispered:

"Sorry to keep you waiting—but you know what Alice is." Every extra in Hollywood could have answered that question. They all knew Alice Delaware was notorious for her tantrums. She seemed to delight in making those who worked with her as miserable as possible. But she was sweet and charming when reporters were on the set. And she was powerful—her husband was the biggest producer in Hollywood. She had been a star for ten years now and her reputation was still strong enough to sell her mediocre acting. Most people made a point of being polite to her—or of keeping out of her way.

"This is what you have to do," said Trixey. Livia had to bump into Alice while they were dancing with the respective partners, then she had to register surprise at the sight of the star's partner, whose role was that of a heart-breaker, and say, "Why, hello, Tommy, I didn't know you were —" Then stop short at his warning look.

It seemed simple enough as Trixey explained it. Livia repeated the words until she felt they were graven forever on her memory.

"All right, rehearsal," yelled the assistant director.

Livia was nervous and bumped into Miss Delaware with too much force.

"What are you trying to do—knock me out?" Alice screamed.

Johnny Einfeld grinned and said, "It's not a football tackle, Livia." Everyone laughed, and Livia felt foolish. "All right, this is a 'take'," said Einfeld. "Camera—action."

But now Livia was too gentle.

"No, no. Bump into Miss Delaware,' Einfeld said when the expression of exaggerated, patient suffering on the star's face made Livia want to slap it.

The next "take" was no good —Miss Delaware's fault this time. She blew up—and blamed it on Livia.

"That fool of a girl has upset me," she said. "What is this—a school of acting?" Again that hateful laugh from some of the extras. Livia was tired. She had slept very little the preceding night. She lost her head and her temper. There was a gasp of astonishment when she said slowly, but clearly to Einfeld:

"I am not the fool of a girl, she is . . . She blamed me for forgetting my lines. Why doesn't she blame her own stupidity?"

"Livia, stop it," said Einfeld. There were smiles on all the faces — excepting Alice's. She looked around swiftly and decided to have hysterics. She flung herself to the floor, kicked her heels, and screamed. Livia was among those who rushed to help her to her feet, but Alice threw off her arm and yelled:

"Get away from me, you—you —" She could think of nothing else to say. "You fool."

It was half an hour before Miss Delaware was able to resume her acting career. And it was no surprise to Livia when Einfeld told her: "Better forget about the Joe, Livia." But she was still too angry to take it philosophically. For months she had worked hard, hoping for just such a chance, and now it was to be taken from her because of a temperamental clothes-prop who couldn't remember her lines.

"I'm leaving," she told Einfeld. "She's right. I am a fool, thinking I could get anywhere as an extra. We haven't a chance. We're just so many pieces of scenery, and we're fools to think we'll ever be anything else. Well, here's one extra that's getting wise to this racket. I'm going . . . good-bye."

She was half-way to the exit before Einfeld caught up with her.

"Listen, Livia." He pulled her around roughly, "You know what this will mean at Central Casting? Your name will be struck off. You'll never be able to get another job as an extra. Come back, calm down—and we'll forget the whole thing."

"I don't care if I am through at Central Casting. I'm sick of being an extra!"

"Okay, Livia," said Einfeld. "There's nothing more to be said. He had a picture to make, and if one foolish girl chose to destroy her livelihood—that was her business. But he was abrupt with Miss Delaware and not all her "Darling, Johnny" this and that, could banish the incident from his mind.

Livia went to her room at Hollywood House. She telephoned Bruce—and was answered by the Chinese boy who looked after him.

"Ah, Missy Clarkson," said the boy. "I have message for you. Missy Nolan go on location. He get call velly early."

"Where?" asked Livia.

"Me no know, but he away few days. He say he call you tonight."

Livia hung up the receiver. What should she do? Marry Bruce and admit she had failed in Hollywood? Maybe have a child? Look after a home? Have peace?

"Oh, but I'd never be satisfied with that." There must be a place for her in Hollywood. She had begun the wrong way, that was all. How did stars become stars? Once they, too, were obscure. Most of them credited the first break to luck—or they came from the stage with a big reputation.

She stared moodily. Then of a sudden she laughed aloud. Why, of course! Why hadn't she thought of that before.

With feverish haste she packed the clothes she had hung in the closet only the day before, paid Mrs. Sayles for the week.

"But where are you going?" stuttered Mrs. Sayles. This was most irregular. Girls don't come to Hollywood House one day and leave the next. Livia wrote her new address on a piece of paper.

She was still laughing at the recollection of Mrs. Sayles' astonishment when she arrived at her new home.

They were filming an aviation story, heavily interspersed with the love of the leading man for the daughter of his commanding officer. The skin of the said leading man was too precious to risk in a plane or in the water. Besides, he could not swim, nor pilot a plane—except on the process stage back in Hollywood.

Bruce circled three times over the lake at Arrowhead. He waved to the group around the camera in the boat, braced himself, and tilted the plane steeply. The plane brushed the water. But he was an old hand at this stunt, and after a momentary shock, opened the specially-built door underneath the plane from which he was to jump to safety. He reappeared in the water, swimming with long, easy strokes despite the uniform he wore. He was picked up by a waiting boat.

"That was fine," the director declared.

"I was hoping you'd want another 'take'." Bruce grinned. He received $250 for each "take" of this stunt. For the first time in his life, he wanted to make money.

For Better Health!

A Common Disease Generally Caused by Acid Condition in the Blood
The Source of Most Disorders; Mineral Deficiency in Our Foods, Often the Cause
Circles Under the Eyes, Gall Stones, Frequent Rising at Night

MINERALS and VITAMINS are considered the very best health remedies today. They are so widely acclaimed, that people look at them as a "God-sent" gift. Books have been written about them. The Government encourages their use. Professors in colleges praise them sky high. Bakers now enrich their flour with Minerals and advertise it. Health lectures herald the good news about them. In schools, in health institutions, in the press, in churches, the radio, everywhere, the cry is: MINERALS! MINERALS!

MINERALS are important to keep and regain health. The warring nations bolster the health of their armed forces with minerals. The Medical Profession—now as never before—is stressing the importance of Minerals. We are told that "WE ARE WHAT WE EAT!" Foods lacking in Minerals are often the cause of many ailments, such as: Decaying teeth, Failing eyesight, Nervous tension, Constipation, Gas-Toxins, Bloating, Kidney and Bladder trouble, Frequent colds, Bad breath, general run-down condition and other disorders.

Wonder Minerals

WHY do Doctors, Hospitals, Sanitoriums, Naturalists, and Specialists recommend Minerals? And why do millions year after year rush to Mineral Springs to find sure relief from Stomach and Kidney ailments, Gall Stones, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuralgia, Low or High blood pressure, Infantile Paralysis, etc., etc? Because of the miraculous aid of the Natural minerals, known for many centuries as the most reliable remedy for those ailments.

THE CURATIVE properties of Minerals is not a new discovery. In ancient Greece and Rome, in China and India, for thousands of years people knew the curative wonders of Minerals. In America we have the famous Mineral Springs in Georgia, patronized by thousands year after year. In France they have the Louvre and Aix Le Bains, and in Greece, the very famous Springs of Thronion where, according to the legend, Hercules, the God of Strength and Youth, drank and bathed to rejuvenate; to be forever young.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Miss Midnight's Notebook.

Manhattan Glitter: Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and his K-K-K-K-T. Stevens togethering again at the Ruban Bleu . . . Carol Landis, the most popular girl at the Stage Door Canteen—by a Landislide! . . . Janet Gaynor doing the Cub Room in a dress just the color of her hair: pink. . . . Mrs. Freddy McEvoy, of the week's most breathlessly awaited divorce case, relaxing From It All with Count Arssich, at the Red Coach Tavern . . . Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox nibbling a steak in Duffy's Tavern—and skipping a bite as Luise Rainer drifts by . . . Bright-eyed Jane Withers, who went from Brat to Beaut almost overnight, attracting plenty of Fan Males at Jack Dempsey's.

Kilgallen

All Around The Town: Martha Raye leading the Bronx cheer section (and she's the one who can do it, too) as Eddie Davis sings "Der Fuehrer's Face" at Leon and Eddie's . . . Scene in front of 39 Broadway: "Cab, Miss Carroll?" . . . "No thanks, I'll get the bus at the corner." So the beautiful Madeleine, who has transferred her energies from the films to the Merchant Seamen, becomes the town's loveliest straphanger . . . Margaret Hayes wearing a hat of red, white and blue lacquered popcorn (honestly!) at the Latin Quarter. Isn't anybody eating popcorn any more? . . . Dick Knight, the cafe society cut-up who has just finished a stretcheroo, sedately celebrating his freedow—with a glass of water at the colony.

A Stone's Throw From Broadway: The two Norwegian Commandos at the Copacabana the other night were buddies—and father and son. They escaped from Norway to England in a rowboat, and now they fight shoulder to shoulder to free their loved ones back home. They're in this country for 10 days and a little laughter between battles . . . Renee De Marco makes like a Sphinx when asked about the Mitchell Leisen rumors—but they don't sound authentic to this corner . . . When Tamiris, the dancer, opened at the Rainbow Room, the energetic gentleman who directed the final rehearsal, instructed the band and fixed the lights was Daniel Nagrin, her up-to-now partner. Nagrin watched the first show, congratulated Tamiris and her new partner, Milton Feher—and then left to report for duty with the U. S. Army.

Faces In Places: At the 18 Club—Paulette Goddard, the woo girl, and Hugh Herbert, the woo-woo man, and Charlie Chaplin, who used to woo Paulette. All of them at different tables . . . Kay Francis taking in the night life at La Vie Parisienne, wearing an ultra-simple frock, a far cry from the kind of befurred elaborations she used to sport in the days when the screen called her its "best dressed star" . . . Carl Sandburg walking briskly down Fifth Avenue, his shock of brilliant white hair an identifying flag . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce casting unexplainably frigid glances at Doris Duke Cromwell in Cerutti's at 1 a. m. . . . Smatter, Peg? . . . The Sam Goldwynns strolling through the Waldorf lobby . . . A Democratic caucus—Jim Farley, Ed Wynn, ex-Ambassador Joe Kennedy and Senator Walgren of Washington—bending their ears to Morton Downey's easy-to-listen-to medlies at the Savoy-Plaza.

The Owl Patrol: Leonard Sues, the magician, and Paul Whiteman, who set so many music-makers' feet on the stardom path, dishing out the band-talk at Reuben's . . . Charlie Butterworth and Robert Benchley eyeing the skaters in Rockefeller Plaza . . . Ricardo Cortez, the sleek-haired film villain, and Jack Pearl, whose return to the airways as "The Baron" has been so triumphant, sidewalk gabbers on Swing street . . . Flaming-haired streak around town—not a comet, just Iris Adrian, the cinema red-head . . . Georgie Jessel, whose autobiography will be entitled "So Help Me God"—and who may allow Lee Shubert to name a theater after him . . . Movie audiences getting the biggest laugh in weeks at showings of "Desperate Journey," when Errol Flynn utters the line: "This is the first time I've ever run out of gasoline with men in the car!"

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Glamour factory at war:

Our town is getting down to brass tacks on the war movie question, even as its cameras continue to record war romances that are merely old-fashioned "chase" films with the modern, obvious background of combat.

Coons

The change in war themes is already becoming apparent, will become more so as films now editing or in preparation hit the screens.

Early emphasis in the movie war was on the enemy, mainly on his spies and saboteurs — a topical variant on the old business of cops and robbers.

Rare was the film that dramatized the real issues of the war (what we are fighting for; the American way of life). You could name "This Above All" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "Mrs. Miniver" and you had practically the whole list.

There were two dozen spy-saboteur plots, ringing in the services of Sherlock Holmes, Ellery Queen, and the Invisible Man.

The production front? We had "Wings for the Eagle," some authentic Lockheed ornamented by Ann Sheridan, and "Priorities on Parade." The home front (civilian responsibility) was represented by such minor entries as "Blondie for Victory." The fighting forces found stirring presentation in "Wake Island," a Nazi chase in "Desperate Journey."

Nearly a dozen of the new films will center on "the issues"—films like "Keeper of the Flame," "The Last Best Hope."

"The Enemy" will be pictured in his usual spy-saboteur frame, but also (and importantly) in films stressing the Fascist ideology — "Watch on the Rhine," "Hitler's Children," "Margin for Error."

"Hitler's Children," based on Gregor Ziemer's "Education for Death," has nothing—and everything—to do with the war, dramatizing as it does the Nazi system of education as opposed to the American. The film is typical of the new bare-facts approach to Hitlerism, mentioning hitherto tabu facts of the ideology such as mass sterilizations, sponsored illegitimacy and other cultural notions of the "new order."

The "brother-in-arms" will get 10 times the attention they had before; films not only on England but on China, Russia, Holland, Norway, other allied nations. Important among them: "Mission to Moscow," "Chetnik," "Timoshenko," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "The Moon Is Down," "The Edge of Darkness," "Dragon Seed," "China Sky." The home front has nine entries.

The fighting forces are getting the lion's share of attention — a dozen on the flying men, of course, but accent too on the buck privates, the Commandos, the merchant marine, the Marines, the submarine crews, the supply arms, the medical corps, the women's armies.

AT NEW HIGH

Westinghouse Boosts War Output At Pittsburgh Plant.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Announcing war production at the giant East Pittsburgh works of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company rose to a new all-time high during October, Vice President A. C. Streamer today credited "close cooperation between labor and management" with making the achievement possible.

More than 1,300 carloads of equipment for the armed forces and for other war plants were shipped during the month, Streamer said, an increase of more than five per cent over September.

U.S. SHIPYARDS ARE 200 UNITS SHORT OF GOAL

Production Slumps in October, But WPB Says Gap Will Be Filled By Jan. 1.

WASHINGTON —(UNS)— A gap of nearly 200 merchant ships today separated American shipyards from their 1942 goal, but maritime commission and WPB officials remained confident that it will be closed in the next two months.

With production slumping by 12 vessels in October, the nation's pace-setting shipbuilding industry will need to turn out 2,000,000 tons of shipping in November and December to attain President Roosevelt's goals of last January.

Six million tons of shipping has gone down the ways so far, while the chief executive called for a 1942 total of 8,000,000. In October the output was 81 vessels, totaling 890,700 tons.

"I'm still hopeful of reaching the mark," said Capt. J. O. Gawne, head of WPB'S shipbuilding division.

Maritime commission spokesmen agreed that the race will be "close," but reiterated past predictions that the 1942 goal will be attained. Next year's merchant ship program calls for 16,000,000 tons of shipping—double the current goal.

Only once before this year have American shipyards delivered 1,000,000 tons of merchant vessels in a single month—that was in September when 93 ships were completed, totaling approximately 1,009,000 deadweight tons.

The slump to 81 vessels last month was largely attributable to the diversion of production capacity to the output of special craft for the armed forces, Capt. Gawne pointed out that "this work will still be going on" in November and December.

CHILE DRIVES ON SPY RING

Orders 12 Axis Nationals Expelled, Accomplices Are Hunted.

(By United Press)

SANTIAGO, Chile — The government, having ordered 12 Germans and Italians expelled from Chile for spying, redoubled today its efforts to smash the organization to which they belonged.

A dispatch from Valparaiso said seven of the agents, including one woman, Catharina Werg Hartmann, were in prison there.

Minister of Interior Paul Morales announced late last night that the government had issued a decree expelling them. Eleven are Germans, and one is an Italian.

They were accused of "crimes of espionage for the totalitarian governments," and Morales said the hunt for their accomplices was being pressed, "because the Chilean government wishes to exercise all diligence in establishing all connections and ramifications of every nature of the spy ring."

United States Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles recently criticized Chile and Argentina, the only two remaining neutrals in the western hemisphere, on the ground that they harbored Axis agents who were informing German submarines about shipping.

Subsequently, Chile and Argentina formally protested Welles' remarks and President Juan Antonia Rios of Chile indefinitely postponed a visit to the United States at President Roosevelt's invitation.

FLYNN ACCUSER TRIES TO HOLD TEMPER AT QUERIES ABOUT AGE

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD—Hot-headed Peggy Satterlee who is 16 now and was 15 when Errol Flynn is alleged to have statutorily raped her, but has, at various times been both 18 and 21, tries to hold her temper today while Flynn's attorneys subject her story to the close scrutiny of cross examination.

Jerry Giesler, one of the west coast's best known criminal lawyers, had just made a beginning yesterday when Miss Satterlee was seized with a "stomach ache" and Flynn's preliminary hearing on the combined charge of statutorily raping her and Betty Hansen, 17, a movie-struck waitress, was adjourned until this morning.

Giesler learned from her that she had once been a "camera girl" in the Palladium, a local dance hall. And she told the management that she was 21 years old because she wanted the job and under California law a girl must be 21 to work in places where liquor is sold.

Also Giesler learned she had worked in many towns as a theater usherette and usually gave her age as 18. Her father, a railroad employe, had taken her to many towns along the coast, she testified, and she had gone to so many schools she couldn't name them all.

Today Giesler goes into the matter of a trip she made to Catalina island aboard Flynn's yacht during the course of which she is alleged to have been subjected to Flynn's intimacies on two occasions. When he is finished, a third member of the yachting party will be called.

He is Peter Stackpole, a photographer for Life and Time magazine, who had been on Catalina island taking pictures and returned to the mainland on the yacht in order to photograph Flynn spearing fish. Miss Satterlee said Flynn came to her stateroom on the yacht at 2 a. m., clad in pajamas. "He asked if he could talk to me. I said it was not very nice for a gentleman to be in a lady's bedroom, especially if she was in bed."

Flynn, she said, replied: "I want to be nice to you, but since you asked for it, you'll get it."

Then, she said, Flynn removed her night dress. What happened thereafter—she blushed as she told about it—frightened her.

Just before reaching the mainland, Flynn kissed her on deck, she said. He asked her to go below with him. "He didn't take my clothes off entirely and only partially removed his," she reported.

SAVING LIVES

Lower Road Speed Cuts Down Traffic Fatalities.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Lower speeds as a tire-saving measure also have been a life-saving aid, State Highway Director Hal G. Sours observed today in reporting a 34 per cent decline in traffic fatalities on state roads outside municipalities during the first nine months of 1942.

Rural highway accident deaths totaled 421 to Oct. 1, against 634 in the corresponding 1941 period, Sours said.

Excessive speed was responsible for only 97 of this year's fatal crashes, a drop of 51 per cent from 200 accidents attributed to speeding in the first nine months of last year, the director added.

He reported a decline of 20 per cent this year in motor vehicle traffic on Ohio's rural roads.

Laff-a-Day

"S'no use, Mike, I ain't got the heart. I can't shoot at their tires!"

Local theater managers are having headaches over wartime transportation, the same as everyone else even though they are not personally traveling. Films were late in arriving in two local houses this week which necessitated borrowing subjects from sister theaters until the missing reels could be located. The headliner at the Ohio theater didn't arrive until late yesterday and Sunday the Majestic found itself short of one of the features on a double-barreled bill. In the meantime a shuttle system between the three Warner Brothers' houses was employed so that a full-length bill could be shown at all theaters.

This week marks the retirement of a newspaperman who "got his start" as a Mansfield reporter. He is A. E. Heiss, who has been chief of the Washington News Bureau of the Independent National Transportation Newsmagazine since 1911. He began his work as a reporter for the Mansfield News in 1887, going next to the Plain Dealer and a succession of other large newspapers before assuming the position from which he is now retiring.

As if he didn't have enough duties to keep any one—or two—men well occupied, Rev. Grover E. Swoyer recently received the offer of another job. While taking a walk out West Fourth street way one day recently, Rev. Swoyer rolled up his sleeves and went to work helping laborers at the railroad overpass lay cloth across some newly poured concrete, just for the physical exercise to be obtained from it. Unknown to both workmen and boss, the "new man" was asked to report for regular work the next day.

Survivors include a step-daughter, Mrs. Grace Shoemaker, of Bellville, and a sister of St. Louis, Mo., who was expected to arrive this afternoon to make funeral arrangements. The body was removed to the Snyder funeral home in Bellville.

Plans To Check Competence of Bureaus; La Guardia Raps Farley.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The Republicans prepared today to assume New York's administrative reins with a full grip Jan. 1 with the pledge of Gov. elect Thomas E. Dewey that he would streamline state government.

Dewey polled close to 200,000 votes more than the total for the Democratic candidate, John J. Bennett, jr., and the American Labor party candidate, Dean Alfange.

Dewey in his first interview following his election declared he would stress "good government."

"There is a great deal of streamlining to be done in the state government. That will require careful scrutiny of dozens of major administrative offices and their record of competence and public service. I have no idea if it can be completed by the first of January," he said.

Mayor La Guardia charged that the Democratic state convention that nominated Bennett "was manipulated for the sole purpose" of giving Democratic State Chairman James A. Farley "an opportunity to hit at President Roosevelt."

Bennett was supported by Farley at the Brooklyn convention over President Roosevelt's original choice, United States Senator James M. Mead. Bennett campaigned with Mr. Roosevelt's endorsement, however.

La Guardia declared: "xxx Mr. Farley never won a campaign unless he had President Roosevelt at the head of the ticket. That myth is exploded."

Asked for comment on La Guardia statement Farley said "It would be silly to discuss anything the mayor says."

Farley said the state Democratic ticket lost because there was a definite trend throughout the nation.

Modest Hero Tells Parents Injuries Are Just Sunburn

NEW YORK—(UNS)—The proud parents of Leonard S. Edelstein, 23, first class aviation radioman, were convinced today that their son is the most modest hero in the United States navy.

When Leonard visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Edelstein, in Brooklyn in September, he gave the impression that his two years in service had been singularly uneventful. True, his body and legs were badly blistered, but that he explained, was sunburn. His new wrist watch, turned rusty, was ruined through carelessness, he related.

So it was with considerable surprise that the Edelsteins received a letter from Leonard inclosing a citation from vice-admiral Royal E. Ingersoll, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet. The certificate commended Leonard and two others for "superhuman efforts" in freeing two rubber life rafts from a sinking patrol bomber and thereby saving the lives of thirteen passengers and crew members. The incident had occurred shortly before Leonard's furlough.

If he can give everything— You can give something!

An accident of birth . . . a matter of a few years perhaps . . . and you might have been that man, crawling on his belly to meet death face to face in the half light of a momentous morning.

Sure, that's a soldier's job . . . but you've got a job too, a big he-man's job on the home front . . . to preserve the things he's fighting for . . . to see that the community chest hospitals, the child welfare agencies and visiting nurse services are continued . . . to keep America decent for his family, his neighbors, for himself when he returns.

This is total war—and you figure in that total. You've been challenged by this self-styled "master race" . . . they say you're decadent, soft with your own ease and self-interest. Well, what do you say?

This united drive gives you your big chance to get into the fight with both arms swinging . . . to show these Nordic Katzenjammers that we can take care of our own in our own way, freely, willingly, gladly—and without laws to compel us, either.

The time is now to make your contribution . . to see that it's not too little—or too late. Come through in '42—for you're an American, and that's the way we do things over here.
